Legislation Could Reduce Power Of Military Chiefs

Top 'Brass' Rivalry Still In Evidence

Most Subcommittee Members Feel U. S. Missiles Setup Hurt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Preparedness subcommittee has under consideration a series of proposals that could lead to legislation shearing the Joint Chiefs of Staff of their military commands.

The subcommittee, headed by Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, has heard contradictory testimony from military leaders and scientists about the amount of service rivalry that still exists under supposed unification of the armed forces.

Most subcommittee members now are convinced there has been so much confusion and bickering among Army, Navy and Air Force leaders in the Pentagon that the nation's missile and satellite programs have been seriously handicapped.

RESIGNS UNDER FIRE—Harold E. Brown, Hamilton County assistant district attorney general, resigned today at the request of District Attorney General W. Corry Smith. The resignation was asked "in view of testimony developed" before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee in the Judge Raulston Schoolfield probe.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Harold E. Brown, who admitted passing $1,000 to Judge Raulston Schoolfield but insisted that if a payoff was involved it was unknown to him, today resigned as assistant Hamilton County District attorney general.

Brown said he was asked to resign in a letter from his superior, Dist. Atty. Gen. W. Corry Smith. He said Smith informed him the resignation would be advisable in view of recent testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee in Washington.

Brown, named an assistant to Smith in March, 1956, would say nothing more than that he was resigning and that he was going back to general law practice.

Quizzed In Parole Case
The prosecutor was questioned in Washington in the case of James Spence Galloway, Chattanooga service station operator who was paroled in 1954 by Schoolfield after being sentenced to a three-year prison term for receiving and concealing stolen property.

Brown told the committee he accepted the money from Sam C. Jones, a bondsman, who testified earlier that he got it from Galloway. Brown said he then gave the $1,000 to Schoolfield in the belief it was to help the judge's unsuccessful attempt in 1954 to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

Innocent Carrier
Brown termed himself an innocent carrier.

Brown was a former foreman of the Hamilton County grand jury, appointed by Schoolfield who has lone jurisdiction in selection of grand jurors and naming of the foreman.

Schoolfield denied last week in a radio-television talk here and in Nashville that he ever took a bribe, and called the Washington testimony part of a plot to destroy him politically. So far he has ignored committee invitations to testify under oath in reply to the allegations.

Ike Back On Job

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower returned to the White House today for conferences with defense leaders and other aides on "Top Priority" proposals for national security which he will make to Congress next week.

Three Youths Hold Family 14 Hours On Board Yacht

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A Winter Park family's holiday cruise turned into a 14-hour gunpoint ordeal when three teen-agers boarded their yacht and demanded to be taken to Mexico.

A note smuggled ashore brought rescue for Richard Sias, his wife and four children.

Officials considered bringing charges of kidnapping and even the archaic crime of piracy against the youths, all from San Antonio, Tex.

The three youths, Mike Moore, 17, Tommy Edwards, 15, and Johnny Cox, 16, were to appear before Criminal Court Judge Thomas S. Caro at Key West.

Phyllis, 50, sons, David, 14, and John, 10, and daughters, Jane, 15, and Bobby, 13, were shaken but physically unharmed.

The Fiesta II went into Isla Morda for fuel and while it lay there, young David managed to slip ashore momentarily with a note which he handed to Murry Cribb, a docker. The note said: "We are being held at gunpoint. Get help."

Cribb rushed to a garage nearby and telephoned the sheriff's department.

Deputies Norman Parker and John Hovey overhauled the yacht and as they came aboard, the Texas teen-agers dropped their guns overboard and surrendered.

Indicted Spy Praises Red Party Chief

Martha Dodd Stern Says 'K' Has Eased Tensions In USSR

MOSCOW (AP)—Martha Dodd Stern praised Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev and his Central Committee today for "easing tensions and establishing an atmosphere of trust" in the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Stern is the daughter of the late William E. Dodd, U.S. ambassador to Germany from 1933-38, and the wife of Alfred K. Stern, former investment broker.

The Sterns are under indictment in New York on spy charges. They flew to Europe from Mexico last July and later turned up in Prague, where they said they were victims of a U.S. campaign of "vilification and slander."

Glowing Account

Mrs. Stern wrote a glowing account of her impressions of Moscow in the weekly Soviet political journal New Times. She said that she attended the big parade in Red Square on Nov. 7, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, and indicated she was still in Moscow at least through mid-December.

Her impressions of Moscow, after an absence of 20 years, were almost altogether favorable. She praised Moscow's gingerbread architecture as exceptional, rich and its new housing as modern and well-planned. She said the Soviet capital's broad boulevards give the impression of cleanliness and happiness.

Abundant Food, Low Prices

She said food is abundant and prices low in stores packed with quality goods—a statement that might be questioned by other Westerners.

The Soviet automobile, she said, is sturdy and well-built and the cost is about the same as U.S. cars.

The price of a new Volga, comparable to the smallest American cars, was boosted today to 40,000 rubles—$10,000 at the official rate of exchange.

Even the weather, Mrs. Stern wrote, is wonderful. And as for the people, she said their doors are always open to visitors. Very few Westerners in Moscow could agree with that.

Soviet Hikes Vodka Price

MOSCOW (AP)—The government advanced the price of vodka today "to help in the struggle against the extravagant use of alcoholic liquor."

The retail prices of wines, automobiles, motorcycles and machine-made carpets also were raised. Reductions were announced for some types of television sets and some Russian cameras.

The Ministry of Retail Trade, which made the announcement, said the prices of bread and bread products would be rounded off for easier accounting, with most of the benefit going to the consumer.

The ministry did not specify the new prices, but at a liquor store half a liter of best grade of vodka, formerly priced at 25 rubles and 90 kopeks, was quoted today at 30 rubles and 80 kopeks.

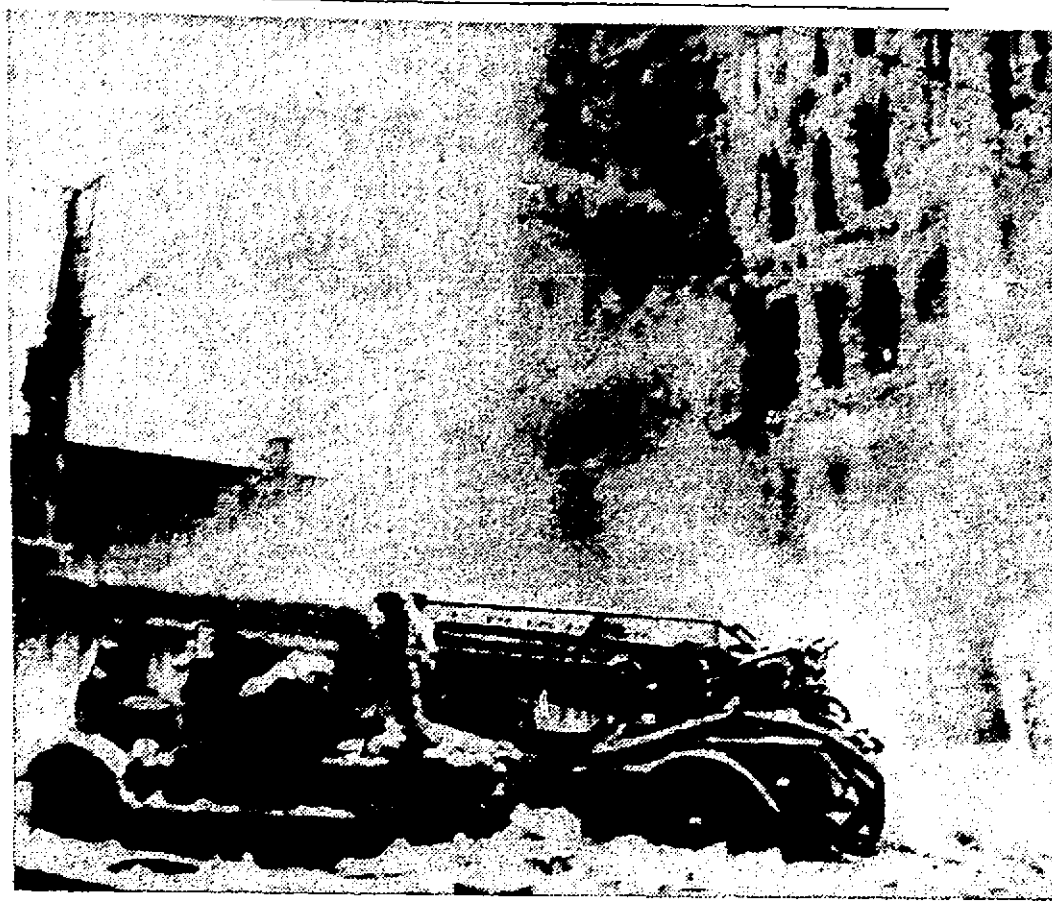

At the official rate of exchange that would be an increase from about $6.50 a pint to about $7.75 a pint.

Artery Replaced Heart Idle 150 Minutes, Youngster Asks Haircut

ROSLYN, N.Y. (AP)—Six-year-old David Fleming Jr. was taken out of an oxygen tent at St. Francis Hospital here yesterday and a doctor asked him if there was anything he wanted.

"Yes," the boy whispered, "a haircut."

David, son of a Queens lawyer, survived a four-hour operation Monday night to replace a diseased heart artery with a healthy one from a 33-year-old dead man. When the operation was completed, the boy's heart spontaneously started functioning. It had been idle 150 minutes.

JACK FROST AT WORK—Ice formations can be seen everywhere after 300 firemen poured water on this seven-story cold storage building for 15 hours in Chicago yesterday. The temperature was near zero. Forty-one firefighting units, including two fire boats and two towers, fought the fire. Two firemen were slightly injured.

Revolt Halted In Venezuela; Leaders Flee

Jimenez Says Rebel Air Force Garrison Taken; Mopup Starts

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The government of President Marcos Perez Jimenez announced today that it had crushed an air force revolt in less than 24 hours.

The army chief of staff, Gen. Romulo Fernandez, in a broadcast said the rebellious garrison at Maracay, center of the revolt, had been taken by government forces at 3:30 a.m.

Fernandez added, however, that scattered pockets of rebels were being mopped up.

Rest Of Country Calm

The army chief repeated the claim by President Perez Jimenez in a broadcast last night that the rest of the country—the world's No. 2 oil producer—was completely calm.

Fernandez said that the rebel leaders fled by air. He reported that Aurelio Ferrero Tamay, commander of the Maracay garrison and governor of the state of Aragua, had been restored to his post along with his chief aide. Maracay is the capital of Aragua state.

Streetslights Turned On

In Caracas itself, streetslights were turned on, ending the brown-out imposed by the government as a defense against rebel planes.

Air force units at Maracay launched a sudden rebellion against the government early New Year's Day, sending jet planes 50 miles east from Maracay to Caracas, the capital, before dawn.

Perez Jimenez said anti-aircraft fire hit one of the raiders and forced it to land at this skyscraper city's airport.

Soldiers Patrol In East Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Russian soldiers have suddenly been called out for duty in East Berlin.

The soldiers are guarding border crossing points between East and West Berlin, and patrolling main streets.

It was the first time since the 1953 anti-Communist uprising of June 17 that Russian soldiers have patrolled the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Girl Guide Leader Ill

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Lady Olive Baden-Powell, world chief guide of the Girl Guides, underwent an emergency operation last night.

Officials Pay Six-Cent Fee

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City was $2.88 richer after Mayor Robert F. Wagner swore in 45 incumbent commissioners and officials and two new appointees in ceremonies at City Hall.

Under a city statute more than 100 years old, each of the commissioners had to pay a filing fee of 6 cents before taking office.

Khrushchev Asks Peace Talks Again

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev has called again for U.S. Russian talks to settle the world's problems.

In a New Year's toast to President Eisenhower, the Communist party boss renewed Soviet efforts to negotiate with top U. S. officials and without America's allies at the table.

Khrushchev told foreign diplomats at the big Kremlin New Year's banquet: "If the Soviet Union and the United States can get together and can reach agreement, most of the world's problems would be solved."

The United States has rebuffed earlier proposals for such talks, preferring to include at least some of its allies in top-level conversations with Russia.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and his wife went to Khrushchev's table after the toast and drank with the party boss, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and President Klementi Voroshilov.

The three top Russian leaders had earlier dispatched New Year's greetings to the world's chiefs of staff and government heads. The apparently similar messages called for peaceful co-existence and an end to what one note called "the fear which the people in all lands feel for the future."

One Million See Dazzling Beauty Of Rose Parade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—They're cleaning up the debris today along Colorado street, the litter left by a million spectators who watched the dazzling beauty of the New Year's Day Tournament of Roses parade.

Bleacher seats which blossom annually for a few days on lawns and parkways are coming down. Paper, discarded lunch boxes, blossoms fallen here and there from the 62 floats symbolizing "Daydreams in Flowers" are being carted away.

Two women died of heart attacks at the parade, Mrs. Myrtle Markel, 72, San Diego, and Mrs. Clara Cardinal, 61, Daly City, Calif.

Before parade time an auto went out of control after a collision and plowed into the crowd, fortunately at only about 10 m.p.h. Five persons were hospitalized as a result and 13 others were treated at the scene, staying on to watch the parade.

Ship Pirated

JAKARTA (AP)—The Panamanian ship Stureborg today was reported pirated near Ampara, in the central Celebes of East Indonesia. Antara, the Indonesian news agency, said the 2,358-ton ship was bound for Celebes ports with a cargo of food. The report said the pirates escaped with considerable cash and rice.

Defense Use To Hike Fund Requests Hit

Cannon Cautions Against Hysteria, Unnecessary Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee cautioned today against a government spending spree under the guise of national defense.

"Where the national defense is concerned, we cannot count the cost and we must provide all the money necessary," he said in an interview. "But that's not the reason why we should get hysterical and spend vast sums of money that aren't necessary."

"A great many people are going to use national defense as a reason to bolster their requests for bigger appropriations," Cannon added. "To them, Sputnik was a godsend. The pork barrel fellow says we still must have our pork."

The pork barrel reference was to annual bills providing for local projects such as river and harbor and flood control programs, on which many members base their election campaigns.

Some Offsetting Items
Cannon said that while he realizes more money will be needed for some defense programs, offsetting savings can be made in other military items.

"The Navy should be restricted to destroyers and submarines," he said. "Big surface ships are no defense against guided missiles or against enemy planes coming over the North Pole. For the same reason, we don't need huge land forces."

Exterminator Has Palace Contract

LONDON (AP)—The Queen of England has miced, and that's official. The fact is disclosed in a new list of royal warrant holders—people who do business with the Queen and are entitled to address "By appointment to Her Majesty."

The list included the name of the British Rattling Co., a rodent control firm in East Grinstead. A company spokesman said his men catch mice for the Queen in her private houses, such as her country estate, Sandringham.

Buckingham Palace's mice are the responsibility of the government's Ministry of Supply.

Grain Prices Advance

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain started mostly lower on the Board of Trade today, but soon steadied as prices advanced above previous levels.

Girl, 14, Found On Lawn After Party; Legs Frozen

FREEMONT, Ill. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl was found unconscious early yesterday on a snowy lawn where she apparently had lain in the yard.

Marsh said Georgia had left home Tuesday night to visit a girl friend and had taken taxi fare for the trip home. When she failed to return home after midnight, her parents learned she had left her friend's home alone at 12:30 a.m. to go to a teen-age party.

More than four hours later Mr. and Mrs. John Rust, who live near the home where the party was held, found her lying in their yard and called police.

Single Day New Year's Toll At 146

179 Die Violently Including 14 In Fire; Under Yuletide Total

By The Associated Press
New Year traffic deaths set a record for a one-day celebration of that holiday.

The total also exceeded the toll of 130 predicted by the National Safety Council.

It fell far short of the 225 lives lost on the streets and roads in the recent one-day Christmas observance.

A tabulation today that included belated reports showed deaths between 6 p.m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday numbered 146 in traffic, 14 in fires and 19 in accidents of other types for an overall total of 179.

Enemy From Within

Ned H. Dearborn, NSC president, said "this toll is a jolting reminder that, along with the threats of war from overseas and of new and bigger Sputniks from outer space, this nation faces a relentless enemy from within that is making a mockery of our claims to leadership in civilized living."

"How long can America endure or tolerate such a needless drain on its manpower? Let us hope that 1958 will bring a stop to this slaughter."

The previous high for a one-day New Year celebration since World War II was 110 in the 1947-48 transition. While the low mark for a 30-hour New Year holiday in the same period was 93 in the 1946-47 transition. The all-time high in traffic deaths for any one-day holiday since World War II was 233 in Christmas 1945.

Ice, Snow Hazard

icy and snowy streets and highways in much of the Midwest and rain in New England were considered added hazards to the heavy holiday travel.

The New Year traffic toll was far in excess of the total reported in an Associated Press survey in a nonholiday test period last month. In the 30 hours from 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10, to midnight Wednesday, Dec. 11, 84 persons were killed in highway accidents. Fire deaths numbered 13 and 27 persons were killed in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 126.

Hillary Group Nearing Pole

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Sir Edmund Hillary's party of New Zealanders is now only 70 miles from the South Pole after covering 28 miles last night, radio messages from him said today.

A British party approaching the U.S. polar station from the opposite direction is still about 300 miles away. The Britons, led by Dr. Vivian Fuchs, plan to continue to Hillary's camp near McMurdo Sound to make the first overland crossing of the continent.

Hillary reported yesterday that deep snow had slowed his tractors to only 22 miles on New Year's Eve in 28 below-zero weather. At one time "it appeared as if the tractor train had reached the end of the road," he said. But by dumping some supplies to lighten the load he was able to continue.

Fires Kill 11,300 In U.S., Last Year

BOSTON (AP)—The National Fire Protection Assn. reports that approximately 11,300 persons were killed in fires throughout the United States in 1957.

The nonprofit fire-safety organization also reported last night that fires cost the United States a record high loss of more than 14 billion dollars last year.

In 1956, the United States had 10,600 fire deaths and $1,231,576,000 property loss.

U. S. Mothers To Visit Sons In Red China

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three mothers of American sons imprisoned by the Communists on spy charges take off today by Pan-American Clipper en route to Red China for two-week visits with their sons.

They arrived last night from New York saying little and carrying vitamin pills, hand-knit socks, fruit cake—and hope—for their sons.

The hope is that somehow they can obtain release of the young men. However, the Red Chinese government, extending an invitation for the visit, offered only that and no indication that they intend to release the prisoners.

The mothers, who appeared unafraid over prospects of entering hostile country, are Mrs. Mary V. Downey, New Britain, Conn., widow and schoolteacher; Mrs. Philip Fecteau, Lynn, Mass., housewife; and Mrs. Ruth Redmond, York, N. Y., housewife and dietitian.

Their sons are John Downey, 27; Richard Fecteau, 30, and Hugh Redmond, 28.

Downey was sentenced to life imprisonment by the Reds and Fecteau to 20 years. Both were Army civilian employees. Redmond, sentenced to life, was employed by an American export-import firm in Shanghai.

Seeks New Cabinet

JERUSALEM (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion began talks today in an effort to form a new government for Israel. His five-party coalition Cabinet resigned Tuesday.

Sputnik 1 Death Due Momentarily

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sputnik 1, which burst upon the world last Oct. 4 as history's first man-made satellite, may die quietly today unseen by human eyes.

American astronomers say the 23-inch, 184-pound sphere has been "lost" for the past month. They base their prediction of its death on orbit calculations carried forward from observations made in late November and early December.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, says it's impossible to pinpoint just where the final flaming plunge into the earth's atmosphere may take place.

The Smithsonian has alerted its 150 Moonwatch teams throughout Downey, New Britain, Conn., widow and schoolteacher; Mrs. Philip Fecteau, Lynn, Mass., housewife; and Mrs. Ruth Redmond, York, N. Y., housewife and dietitian.

Their sons are John Downey, 27; Richard Fecteau, 30, and Hugh Redmond, 28. Downey was sentenced to life imprisonment by the Reds and Fecteau to 20 years. Both were Army civilian employees. Redmond, sentenced to life, was employed by an American export-import firm in Shanghai.

Ran Out Of Onions:

Family Made Ill By Eating Of Daffodils

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Mrs. Muriel Bennett does not know her onions. So four of her family came down with severe stomach aches yesterday, and a number of her husband's daffodils will not bloom in the spring.

Mrs. Bennett was fixing a meal of liver and onions when she ran out of onions. She went down to the greenhouse to get a handful from a reserve supply.

The meal was served. Mrs. Bennett, her 17-year-old daughter, Pauline and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, promptly came down with severe abdominal pains.

They returned from treatment at a hospital to find Mrs. Bennett's husband, just home from work, complaining bitterly. Somebody had made off with a bunch of the prize daffodil bulbs he had been nursing in the greenhouse.

Girl, 8, Fatally Burned As Mom Visits Ailing Dad

BLACKWELL, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Omer Cottle spent much of New Year's Eve visiting her husband at Blackwell General Hospital, where he has been confined since October with injuries received in an oil well fire.

While her mother was gone, 8-year-old Virginia Cottle apparently got too close to the flames of an open gas heater at home. Her 11-year-old brother Alan stopped Virginia as she ran screaming from the house and suffered minor burns smothering the flames that had engulfed her.

Virginia died at the hospital where her father is confined.

Jailer Earl Clemmer said he was unable to open their cell doors.

Cold Weather Spreads Across Eastern Section

By The Associated Press
Cold weather spread across most of the Eastern half of the nation today, with the icy air extending deep into Dixie.

Skies were clear in most of the cold belt although a snowstorm hit the Cleveland area, dumping up to 8 inches of snow in some places. Squalls were forecast near the Lakes region of Pennsylvania and New York, with snow falls from 6 to 12 inches in prospect.

Review Of Agriculture In United States For 1957 Shows Gain But Not As Much As Rest Of Economy

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture as a whole marked up a slight gain in income in 1957 but continued to lag behind the remainder of the economy. This latter fact kept political fires burning under the farm issue.

At an annual rate of slightly more than 12 billion dollars, farm operators' net income was about 2 per cent above that of 1956. This was the first time since 1947 that their income had increased for two consecutive years.

Nevertheless, the financial return was about 30 per cent below the record marked up in 1947 and around 20 per cent below the level farm leaders figure agriculture should have been to put farmers on an income par with their city cousins.

Farm policies of the Eisenhower administration came under sharp attack from some farm groups as well as from some farm state congressmen, both Democrats and Republicans.

This criticism was directed rather pointedly at Secretary of Agriculture Benson. There were demands that he resign.

The President kept Benson on the job, but there was much speculation toward the end of the year that a new face would be brought in soon to take over farm programs.

Crop surpluses continued to be agriculture's major problem. Oversupplies held down prices. They also operated to restrict production opportunities under crop production control and land retirement programs of the government.

Farmers cut their crop acreage to the lowest level in 40 years. Yet production was indicated to be up to the record volume produced in 1948, when there were no government restrictions, and rather than crops, cattle and hogs in particular made price gains.

There was agreement both with the effects of an ever-developing agricultural technology.

Farm prices as a whole increased about 3 per cent during the year, but most of this improvement was in markets for livestock and livestock products.

Cloves, used to flavor baked ham and other dishes, are now principally grown for commercial purposes on the African island of Zanzibar. They are so highly regarded there that once they were exchanged as a medium of money.

The United States headed the list of countries that bought commodities from and sold to Turkey during the first nine months of 1957.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the Flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Test of Rocketry

THE CONTINUING series of missile tests at Cape Canaveral, Fla., indicates that the government of the United States is hard at work trying to close the actual and the psychological gap opened by the Soviet Union through its successful missile-satellite launchings earlier this fall. Best news to date was our success with the much publicized Atlas, an intercontinental ballistic missile designed to travel 5,500 miles in half an hour at heights up to 600 miles above the earth.

THE RECENT TEST was not intended to put the Atlas over its full course. The target this time was a mere 500 miles away. But there has to be a beginning, and Atlas made it, reaching its target and operating properly en route. No hint was given of its speed or maximum altitude on this firing. Naturally, until an Atlas has traveled its maximum range at calculated speed and height and re-entered the earth's atmosphere to land successfully in its target zone, there can be no sustained rejoicing. Much important labor on this missile clearly remains to be done. It should not be forgotten, either, that our experts now believe Russia is in fact ahead of us in intercontinental ballistic missile work, perhaps having fired from four to eight such weapons successfully.

NEVERTHELESS, the news of Atlas' getaway at Cape Canaveral must have been a tonic to some of our free world allies who have been suffering tremors of fear ever since the Soviet earth satellites went on their whirling course around the globe. The first foolish shrugging off of those launchings as "not so much" has been forgotten. We're down to business now, determined to recapture the lead in rocketry and to wipe out as much of the propaganda damage as possible. And we are showing that, without belittling the Russian achievement with earth satellites, we do not intend to be deflected from the vital task of developing the weapons whose possession we deem to be necessary to the enduring security of this and all other free nations.

WHY IS IT THAT television weather forecasters feel compelled to give you the weather data on Moose Jaw and Asbestosville before they tell you what the temperature is outside your window?

Happy Birthday

OUR FELICITATIONS go to year's end to the United Press, one of America's great news-gathering organizations, upon the completion of 50 years of growth in a highly competitive field of activity. Few readers of newspapers realize the intense rivalry between the two great news services of this country, the United Press and the Associated Press, nor the effect which this rivalry has had in speeding and bettering news reports available to them. However, some fascinating inside stories documenting that rivalry are now available in a book written by Joe Alex Morris, himself a veteran of the press association school of journalism, entitled "Deadline Every Minute." If "Deadline Every Minute" leans a little heavily toward UP exploits, it has its counterpart in a book produced some years ago by Oliver Gramling, "AP, the Story of News." The hard school of press association competition has produced a special breed of reporters and American newspapers in general—and through them you, the reader—have benefited greatly by their efforts to be first and best with the news of every corner of this globe. It is an interesting speculation that in the next 50 years the UP and AP will be meeting their deadlines every minute from stations or even planets in outer space. We hope that this fantastic half century will have another Joe Alex Morris to chronicle it as interestingly as the first has done with the past 50 years.

AN EMINENT nutritionist reports that while part of the world is virtually starving another part is eating itself to death. This at least proves that all are headed in the same direction.

Republicans Hope To Renew Coalition

WASHINGTON—Ordinarily Congress is, by and large, inclined toward conservatism by the very nature of circumstances. This is likely to be true more than ever now, because in the second session of the 85th Congress the grim emphasis will be on national defense and its Russian overtones and the gloomy domestic economic outlook and the falling indices.

At the center of this conservatism is the revived coalition of Southern conservative Democrats and Republicans. E ring the civil rights fight in the last session Republicans joined with Northern Democrats, but that had been an unfamiliar and uncomfortable alliance.

The marriage of convenience is obviously over—that is, except for Eastern Republicans in the large states, sometimes designated the Eisenhower Republicans.

In the end the Republicans were unable to prevail in the civil rights issue with their Northern Democratic partners. Instead, they were skillfully bested by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic party leader, and a combination of Western and Southwestern Democrats and a few Republicans.

WHAT HAS happened is that the bulk of Republicans are disillusioned now and ready to go back with the coalition which worked so happily with the Southerners. In double harness ever since 1933, they fought side by side against New Deal economic and social welfare issues.

This is not a happy solution for Eastern Republicans or for Northern Democrats. But the truth is that they are outnumbered. Especially on civil rights, this will be nothing but a sham battle as far as Congress is concerned, though they must put up a bold front.

When the official word came from Attorney General William Rogers, the Administration abandoned any further civil rights legislation for the rest of this 85th Congress. This, of course, means until after the November, 1958, election.

Republican leaders in Congress, after all their efforts for a civil rights bill, found in the Wisconsin special Senatorial election and in the off-year elections in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania the Negroes stronger for the Democrats than before.

IT MIGHT BE said that Republicans discourage easily, even though the election picture is bad enough. What the truth is in some cases, or at least so it seems, is that many Republicans in Congress were more earnest about conservatism than about civil rights. They seemed, in fact, to be more contented with their old Southern cronies.

Once again there is a rebirth of the conservative spirit among Republicans in Congress, and once

Congress Finds Automation Rough Going

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Congress has just taken a new look at the recent effects of automation on the nation's economy in light of growing unemployment and a gloomy business outlook.

It finds that industry is discovering some unforeseen headaches in trying to automate. But automation is changing white collar work, especially in banking and retailing, faster than was expected.

The Joint Economic Committee of Congress took this new view of automation by calling up bankers, industrialists, scientists, labor leaders and automation experts to testify on the subject.

Generally speaking, automation is the substitution of machines and electronic devices for the work of humans. It is given credit for a major assist in helping to curb prices in the face of soaring wages by Roger Bolz, editor of Automation Magazine. He told the committee:

"While compensation of industrial employees rose some 60 billion dollars—60 per cent—between 1948 and 1956, with corporate new profits taking little or no increase, prices of manufactured goods rose only 30 per cent."

THE COMMITTEE was also impressed with his future look at the need for industry to automate:

"In 1975 the latest Department of Labor figures forecast a population increase of 55 million and a gross national product doubled to 858 billion dollars. A 100 per cent increase output will be demanded from a total labor force roughly 28 per cent over today's level."

Fluctuating prices and the inability to figure in advance just what savings will be achieved from the purchase of expensive automation machinery have turned into major obstacles to greater industrial automation, the committee was told.

One firm, it was revealed, had to abandon a new, automated plant which it built at a cost of between five and ten million dollars. It was discovered too late that the steel products it was designed to turn out would be more expensive than those produced in the plants of competitors, which were less automated.

MANY SMALL firms, especially, have gone into bankruptcy because automated production lines have turned out to be more expensive than was originally estimated. And even small price decreases on some products have made some newly automated production lines uneconomic.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—This is a good season for resolves, and a fast 8-to-5 will get you a handsome bet out of the collection, 90 per cent will vanish into wisps of smoke and disillusion. There will be no large resolves, nothing of shaking importance, but small things. Like vowing not to smoke every time a new report on cigarette damage to the human body gets onto Page One. This has kept me off cigarettes for six hours during all of 1957. Hopefully, in 1958, I can stay off seven hours.

Then there is one about never going more than 40 miles per hour in a 40-mile zone. Terrible things: I did it four times in 1957. I'll try to make it five in 1958.

But it's difficult, what with highway police, at rush hours, saying that 45 is all right, because it helps move traffic along and shorten the congested periods.

I HAVE resolved never again to believe any young playwright when he tells me, at a party, that he is going to be different. He doesn't care if his plays never make a nickel. They are going to be Sincere, with a capital S.

He usually says this with last week's royalty check for $2,567.87 in his pockets and in an hour will be at Idlewild Airport bound for six weeks of pleasure in Istanbul. It's always Istanbul, too.

But with their duds packed and their wallets stacked, they get me into corners and say: "I want to thank you for showing me where I was being crass and commercial and you're right. I just want a 'Sincere' play after this." Two months later they are back with a new, light, spineless, insincere and terribly amusing comedy.

I AM GOING to stop writing letters to married women. I had a long and wordy correspondence with seven in 1957. Got answers, too. Do you think their husbands minded? Not at all. They sometimes even added postscripts in their own handwritings. Like: "Joan showed me this. I agree with her. Mrs. Ben." It's a useless way of writing. Gets you nowhere.

If possible I intend to write 313 columns in 1958, most of which will be about New York and none about Mexico. This may bring vast relief to some people and annoyance to others, but what can I do?

I've written about Mexico for

Sid Caesar Comes Back

NEW YORK—(INS)—"Everybody can't like you—understand?" said Sid Caesar, trying to explain how it feels to be coming back on television after being bounced by a shrunken rating.

"If everybody likes you, there's something wrong with you—understand?"

"That's why I don't feel bitter. I feel sad. Sure, I feel sad sometimes. But it's a matter of I love television and I don't play games when I love something. That's it, that's it."

MR. CAESAR is a nervous man and a sensitive one. When his show was dropped from the screen last May 25, because it had fallen to a 17 rating, he thought he'd quit.

"I was hurt, sure. I thought I'd retire. But no. Because no matter what you take with you on the vacation—your socks, your shorts and slacks, your golf clubs—you've got to take this along too" (he tapped his forehead).

"My wife didn't want me to go back to work. She said 10 years is enough, but I say all right, I'm 35 now." He twitched a shy smile. "So where do I jump?"

THE NEW ABC show, called "Sid Caesar Invites You," begins Sunday night, Jan. 26, and features his first and most popular partner, Irogene Coca. Of whom he says, "She's really a changed woman. She's had a lot of tragedy—whereas, she has had trouble. But this thing picked her up again, and she's funnier and more, more fluid than she used to be."

THE MAN millions of fans believe to be the most masterful comedian in the world today has a way of talking that is almost a verbal bludge. He gropes for words and philosophies that will convey what he means, yet hurt no one. For instance, when asked if he's "sticking his neck out" in accepting another comedy show in view of the publicized view that comedians are poison these days, he says:

"Well, the main part of where I go against all these people who make trends is that I'm going on once a week. They think it should be no more than once a month. But I feel like, say, there's a shoe store that's open all the time, 24 hours a day, and say you break your heel. You know they're there all the time, and reliable, so naturally you go there, don't you?"

THUS, IF Caesar is easy to get to, and reliable, he figures he'll always have a loyal audience. And why, then, was his rating falling?

Caesar fought long before he captured the kindly words. "This I will venture to say—the ratings people take the ratings, and maybe they have a wonderful system I don't know about. But when you put 300 sets in a place where 8-million people live, well,

Classics

THE CLASSICS of literature attain that status because they are read and enjoyed by successive generations. This is the supreme test, one that the greatest literary works have passed with high marks.

This is not enough to satisfy some persons, who have a yen to "improve" the classics. They want to simplify Shakespeare and Dickens, Melville and Dumas and Mark Twain. They would like to put the works of these and other literary giants through a process called "modernizing."

A man with the mellow name of Montgomery Mulford, writing in Publishers' Auxiliary, carries this attitude to the furthest extreme we have yet encountered. He calls for no less than "the complete rewriting of the classics," partly to "save a lot of headaches on the part of high school students." Says Mulford: "Someday, perhaps, some genius will rewrite these classics, in 'the modern tempo'—not just briefened stories as has been done, nor retelling them as Charles Lamb retold Shakespeare, but a complete rewriting job."

Mulford thinks "it may be that many classic novels are neglected, especially by the younger generations, because they do not possess the verbal 'oomph'."

If he and his colleagues with itchy typewriters ever do "a complete rewriting job" on the classics, the result may be some twice-told tales suitable for youngsters anxious to get through literature courses without suffering the pain of thought. Discriminating readers will continue to turn to the classics themselves.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Once a year we try to be a fortune teller, and once again we must say: "This year is fortunate."

It is a welcome reading in a crystal ball too often cloudy. The usual things in 1958 will disturb the world pattern—things like earthquakes, people, weather and doubt.

The endless changing pattern of change itself will enforce our lives as always, closing doorways on the familiar by a pull, and by a push opening new doors to new and differing days and other ways.

Yes, we must be willing to face fresh adventures in the coming year.

A MAN WILL invent a doll which he will guarantee will not weep, close its eyes, walk, or wet its diaper.

It will be called "Dumb doll," and it will sell 12 million copies. Children will cry to own this strange toy, so different from themselves.

The Russians will throw a Sputnik toward the moon and miss it, but won't announce it.

The British will hit the moon and if someone observes this and makes a complaint about it the British Home Office will force the British Foreign Office to come clean.

In the National League it is hard to fault Milwaukee, and in the American League after the Yankees it is hard to predict Kansas City less than a close last.

There are other possibilities.

In the year ahead thinking may replace bowling as the national pastime; it must also be considered that people, weary of outside entertainment, will look more into themselves for refreshment.

It will be observed that Khrushchev, somber with responsibility, is drinking less than he was known to drink before. This could be bad or good.

In France, a premier will remain in power longer than any other premier since the end of the last World War. This could be bad or good.

In the Middle East there is no question about what can happen. It is bad or good. These things are certain.

FOR THE REST of it, the pattern of 1958 seems reasonably clear.

In North Carolina in March a lady driver will hear a strange buzzing in her car. On investigation it will turn out to be a snake. How did it get there?

In Minnesota in June another lady will hear a strange noise in her car, and it will turn out to be a baby alligator, and the question will be: How did it get there?

In California in September a wife will unexpectedly greet her husband returning from a business trip, and there'll be a girl in the front seat.

The big puzzle of 1958 will be not how the snake got aboard a car in North Carolina, or how an alligator achieved it in Minnesota, but how the girl knew the car was going to California. The solution will come in court in 1960.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—Former Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Robert B. Carney gave a formal dinner party the other evening at which a number of our illustrious denizens gathered about the festive board and strove to behave with the decorum that they deemed their station in life warranted.

The Carneys have a French poodle of which they are inordinately fond, and the beast kept nuzzling the distinguished diners for tidbits.

Those who shared with the canine panhandler included Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, Former U. S. Ambassador to Portugal M. Robert Guggenheim, and Floyd De Soto Akers, who had just received notification, before he sat down to feed, that he had been appointed special ambassador to the inauguration of President-Elect Garcia of the Philippines on Jan. 30.

AFTER GETTING the word from President Eisenhower that he was to represent him in Manila, Envoy Akers felt big hearted and shared with the poodle, bite and bite. Admiral Strauss kept slipping the animal a portion of his fodder, but Col. Guggenheim decided he'd like to eat his food himself, and cut off the dog's rations.

The poodle refused to accept this unilateral attitude of the ex-ambassador without protest. He kept pestering Col. Guggenheim to share. Finally the latter banged his fist on the table and kicked out with his leg. Unfortunately he caught one of the women guests, who yelped. This prompted Col. Guggenheim's beautiful wife, Polly, to cry compassionately:

"For Heaven's sake, Robert, let the dog alone."

Envoy Akers announced that he and his wife, Irma, intended to depart the day after New Year's, and was telling of all the places they expected to visit, when Col. Guggenheim barked and kicked again. Once more his wife pleaded:

"Please, Robert, stop annoying the poor dog!"

Admiral Strauss regaled the brilliant assemblage by saying he had no atomic secrets to divulge. Admiral Carney nodded, and a leading hostess, named Mrs. Edith Montgomery, said there were things about nuclear fission she didn't fully understand yet. In the midst of this fascinating discourse, Col. Guggenheim whammed the table again.

Sternly, his wife reprimanded: "Robert, I asked you to stop playing with that dog." The ex-ambassador went purple. "Playing?" he howled. "He just bit me!"

I AM AFRAID that our Metropolitan Police are becoming class conscious, or more specifically, classy car conscious.

The other evening, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon gave a party in their new $75,000 home in Spring Valley. Limousines were permitted to drive up to the mansion, but unchauffeured machines were stopped by cops at the foot of a rather steep hill and the occupants informed they'd have to hoof it the rest of the way upward.

This produced some extremely distinguished squawking because many of our most illustrious burghers drive their own cars. But the gendarmes were adamant. They kept intoning at self-chauffeurs:

"Only limousines allowed beyond this point."

I noted a number of limousineless luminaries, including Secretary of the Cabinet Maxwell M. Rabb and his lovely wife, Ruth, trudging up that hill. They stared bleakly after creatures of special privilege as the limousines purred by them.

C. L. Wilson, W. Va. Mine Chief, Begins Full Term

CHARLESTON (AP)—Mines Chief Crawford L. Wilson of Beckley begins his first full four-year term today.

He was appointed yesterday by Gov. Underwood after serving out the unexpired portion of his predecessor's term.

Wilson was named May 17 to succeed Julius Olzer, who resigned. This appointment ran from June 1 until Jan. 1.

Wilson will have placed before the Legislature a revision of West Virginia's coal mining statutes. These have been prepared by coal associations in the state and the United Mine Workers during a six-month period.

Wilson said enactment of the revision was of vital importance because of the coal industry's rapid change from hand loading to a modern, mechanical system of operation. He pointed out that there have been no real changes in the coal mining statutes for about 25 years.

Hyde Urges Purchase Of Additional Stream Parklands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Purchase of additional stream parklands in Maryland is being urged by a Maryland congressman before costs go higher and less land is available.

Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said today he will try for early consideration of his bill to transfer some department of interior money to buy such lands.

"Since this would be merely a transfer of funds, no new money would be required by my bill for the acquisition of additional parklands," Hyde said.

Acquisition of such lands for park areas is authorized under the Capper-Crampton Act of 1927. The federal government would pay two-thirds of the cost and the state or local government one-third.

"Congress has indicated it is not appropriating any more money for this purpose," Hyde said. "We don't feel that all the land needed for these parks has been acquired. Since there are some funds available I plan to press for my bill to have the money transferred."

Meanwhile, Hyde said, costs of such lands are rising and less land is available for park use.

Hyde said he will ask for an early hearing on another Maryland park project—the proposed designation of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal area as a national historical park.

The Senate last year passed such a bill offered by Sen. Beall (R-Md). An identical bill by Hyde is pending in the House. Hyde has said he plans to offer amendments to clarify what he described as safeguards for civic, industrial and other uses along the Potomac River.

Recalling that there has been considerable opposition to the proposed historical park, Hyde said Marylanders will be given adequate opportunity to testify before the House committee considering the bill.

Dulles Runs Department By Himself

Most Traveled Head Of State Department Tones Down Stand

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — You'd be hard put to name three men—besides Secretary Dulles—who work for the State Department. His is a one-man show, now going into its sixth year.

If he has any plans for dealing with the Russians other than those he started out with—and his basic plan he inherited from the Democrats in 1953—he hasn't revealed them.

There's been no evident change in Dulles except for a toning down in his once flamboyant statements. He hasn't been talking—since the Russians unveiled their missiles—of "massive retaliation" or the brink of war.

At 70 Dulles is the most traveled secretary of state in history. Since taking office five years ago, he's gone over 355,000 miles. And he's getting ready for more.

He went to the NATO meetings in Paris in December, will probably go back for the spring session. He may go to Southeast Asia for talks with American allies there.

He's definitely going to Turkey this month for a conference of the Baghdad Pact countries on Russia's southern border. This country sponsors that pact but won't join it.

Only two men in the State Department—besides Dulles—come readily to mind and he overshadows both of them almost completely: Harold Stassen and Christian A. Herter.

Herter, former governor of Massachusetts, is undersecretary of state. When Herter was appointed, there was speculation he was being groomed to succeed Dulles and would take over after he got settled in his job.

If so it's an extremely quiet grooming. Herter is almost never heard of. This writer recently asked a man who has been in the State Department for years and knows something of what's going on: "What's Herter been doing?"

The man laughed. He said: "Nothing I know of. Herter is just another horse in the Dulles stable. Dulles is boss around here. The people around him carry out his orders."

Stassen, specialist on disarmament, worked directly under President Eisenhower until Dulles brought him under his control by having him shifted to the State Department.

Stassen has been an ambitious politician all his life and may quit to seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Pennsylvania. But he has been almost as quiet as Herter in recent months, although it has been reported there is deep disagreement between Stassen and Dulles on how to deal with the Russians on disarmament.

Dulles, despite a cancer operation 13 months ago, is extremely active for a man of his age. He shows no sign of tiring. And he shows no sign of retiring either.

Hospital Treats Patient, Cause

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP) — Morehead City Hospital recently had to deal with both the emergency and the cause of the emergency.

Attendants treated an inebriated patient for snakebite. A few hours later the still inebriated patient returned, clutching a live rattlesnake, its coils wrapped around his arm.

He explained that he had been told that with an injection of the blood of the rattlesnake he would "get better right off."

Gently and firmly, the attendants explained he had received all the treatment he needed and cautiously escorted the patient and singing rattlesnake to the nearest exit.

VANISHING VILLAGE — After waging a 10-year battle against a slow but inexorable landslide, the town of Musio, near Lake Garda, Italy, appears doomed. There remains only a tiny cluster of buildings which have not yet crumbled. Heavy rains in 1957 aggravated the slide and the town is now nearly completely evacuated. The church at right, its foundation undermined, is expected to be the next building to fall in ruins, like those in the foreground.

Yearend News Reviews Superior To Last Year

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Although television journalism has been of age for some time now, its development was forcefully evident to all who saw the yearend reviews and forecasts by the three major networks.

All varied in format. Each showed superiority over past efforts.

For a long time CBS-TV appeared ascendant in the field of news coverage and interpretation. This no longer is the case. The news staffs gathered by NBC around Chet Huntley and by ABC under John Daly leave no network with a clear advantage in the field of news.

It's an oversimplification, but a general truth, that all human communication falls into two forms: plain or fancy. John Daly on ABC Sunday chose a plain and forthright presentation of the news of 1957 and the outlook for 1958. Chet Huntley and his staff on NBC chose a more elaborate approach. Edward R. Murrow and CBS correspondents remained with their traditional round-table discussion method after a full hour of straight news review by Robert Trout.

CBS and NBC correspondents enjoyed editorial comment, a luxury every reporter desires. ABC correspondents were more closely confined to the facts of the news—and let the facts speak for themselves.

The conclusions by the newsmen of all three networks were the same, whether enunciated or implied: We, as a nation, are in troubled times. The problems of racial integration show that our own house is not in order. In the international arena we have lost strength. We desire strong leadership. We must tighten our belts economically and foster our best intellects if we are to remain a first-class power.

It was a pleasure to hear such freedom of expression on television, a medium so frequently accused of timidity.

These unsponsored programs cost the networks large sums of money. If prosperity encourages more of this kind of programming, may 1958 be highly prosperous for all of them.

Electric Blanket Sought For Drying Peanut Crop

2,729 Marriage Licenses Issued Here In 1957

Some 2,729 marriage licenses were issued during 1957 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. The 1957 total was higher than the 1954 total of 2,634 but below the 2,817 issued in 1955.

Following are the monthly totals for the past two years with the 1956 figure first in each case: January—164 and 192; February—165 and 181; March—176 and 215; April—224 and 231; May—227 and 208; June—309 and 232; July—299 and 267; August—274 and 281; September—225 and 220; October—247 and 185; November—215 and 219; December—215 and 208.

Oddly, 1957 started as if it would far outdistance the previous year in the number of marriage licenses as the monthly totals were higher than in 1956 for each of the first five months. However, a sort of recession in marriage licenses followed and only in two of the final seven

Food Processing Upped Vegetable Eating During '57

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—(INS)—Colorado State University home economists report Americans are now eating 20 per cent more vegetables than they did 20 years ago.

The annual rate of consumption of both fresh and processed vegetables jumped from 170 pounds per person in 1937-39 to 202 pounds per person in 1954-56.

The economists noted all of the increase is due to greater use of processed vegetables. Consumption of processed vegetables is now 70 per cent greater than 20 years ago.

On the other hand, use of fresh vegetables has declined in the post-war years. Experts predicted the prospect of higher incomes, improved technology and increasing emphasis on "convenience foods" suggests the trend toward more processed and less fresh vegetables is likely to continue.

The Braddock Junior Optimist Club will hold tryouts for its oratorical contest today at 5:30 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The winner of the oratorical contest will vie in the district competition which probably will be held in Roanoke, Va. The district winner then goes to the national finals in New York.

Baltimore Area Cigaret Tax Increased

BALTIMORE (AP)—Now that New Year's celebrations have ebbed, smokers in Baltimore and Baltimore County are coming to the sobering realization that they're paying two cents more per pack for cigarettes.

New increases in the cigarette tax went into effect in the city and county yesterday.

The boost generally jumped the price of a pack of regular cigarettes from 24 to 26 cents. In most cases a carton was 20 cents higher than the old price of $2.20 or $2.25.

Most people were surprised—and unhappy—about the increase.

"A couple of people said they'd have to stop smoking," a clerk in one store said.

"One guy," reported another establishment, "just walked right out of the place."

Merchants in sections of the city and county bordering Anne Arundel County were, perhaps, the most unhappy with the new levy.

While Baltimore City and Baltimore County now collect five cents tax on each pack of cigarettes, Anne Arundel collects none.

Edward Dietrich, who manages a South Baltimore supermarket, expressed the merchants' frustration.

"Anybody would be a fool to pay 50 cents more per carton here, when they can easily buy cigarettes in the (Anne Arundel) county."

Dietrich said, "But what's the use of thinking about it?"

W. A. Strother Will Run For County Board

W. A. Strother, of 809 Frost Avenue, a former tax collector for Allegany County's District 1, has announced he will be a candidate for county commissioner subject to the May 20 Republican primary election.

Strother's action makes him the third announced candidate for the three county commissioner posts.

Earlier in the month Louis V. Shinnamon, local merchant who lives in LaVale, announced that he will be a Republican candidate for county commissioner. Then on December 18, James P. Russell of Mt. Savage became the first official candidate when he filed as a Democratic candidate for county commissioner. He was unsuccessful in the 1954 election.

Strother served as tax collector at the Court House for four years beginning in December 1946 and then was assistant tax collector for nearly four years, leaving that position in 1954 to associate with Harry B. Simpson in the insurance business, in which he still is engaged.

Before going to the Court House, Mr. Strother was employed as a salesman for The Kennebec Company, wholesale grocers.

Strother concluded by saying that he is running independently of any person or faction, but if elected a county commissioner will cooperate with other members of the board in every way possible consistent with what he feels to be the best interest of the taxpayers.

Senator Bean Compares Tax Situations

Moorefield Solon Addresses Meeting Of Lions, Kiwanis

The president of the West Virginia Senate compared the tax programs of Maryland and West Virginia in the course of a talk Tuesday at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions clubs at Central YMCA.

In the course of his talk on common problems facing both Maryland and West Virginia, Senator Bean cited a number of statistics on income received by the two states from various taxes.

The man from Moorefield said that Maryland's income tax provides $70 million a year whereas West Virginia has no such tax. The gross sales tax, West Virginia's chief revenue producer, yields $42.75 million a year.

On the state level, the property tax has almost vanished in West Virginia, providing only $250,000 in 1957 as against about $9 million in Maryland.

Racing revenue provides much more income in Maryland than in West Virginia, Senator Bean observed. The Free State gets about $9.4 million from this source and West Virginia only $2.4 million. Despite restrictive state stores for the sale of whisky, West Virginia's revenue from alcoholic beverages taxes amounts to about $10 million compared with Maryland's $3 million.

Maryland's income from gasoline taxes is much higher than West Virginia although the rate is the same.

One West Virginia tax which Maryland does not have is a general licensing fee on chain stores which produces about $8.6 million a year. Retail sales tax, now produces $45 million a year in Maryland and $31 million in West Virginia.

Concerning sales taxes, Senator Bean said one economics expert has predicted that within a few years all states will be collecting a four or five per cent sales tax as this is one of the few major sources of revenue left for them because of the federal dominance in income taxes.

West Virginia's soft drink tax, which Maryland does not have, brings in about $3.2 million a year and Senator Bean said all of these funds are earmarked for the new West Virginia University Medical School. Total cost of the new school is about $29 million and about $9 million more needs to be collected to pay for this establishment. Thereafter, the soft drink tax revenue will go for the medical school's operation.

Senator Bean also cited some figures on expenditures for public education in the two states. Maryland spends $355 per child, 18th in the nation, while West Virginia spends $214, 41st among the states. The average teacher's annual salary in Maryland is $5,100 and in West Virginia only $3,640. Maryland's average per capita income is $2,102, 11th in the nation, and West Virginia's only $1,420, 38th among the 48.

Injury List Of Workers In W. Va. High

CHARLESTON (U.P.) — During the past month in West Virginia 3,870 workers were injured, 16 fatally, the State Compensation Commission reported.

Coal mining claimed the most lives — eight — and caused the most injuries — 1,371. In construction, the second most dangerous occupation in November, two workers were killed and 390 injured.

Machine shops accounted for the next largest number of accidents, with 233. None was fatal.

In glass manufacturing, 165 were injured; in chemicals manufacturing, 159; in retail stores, 191; and in auto operation and repair, 116. Other fatalities occurred in sawmills and logging, chemicals manufacturing, retail stores, tunneling and excavating, agriculture, and bakeries, hotels and restaurants. The 16 deaths in industry left 13 women widows and 24 children orphans.

Man Falsely Obtaining Ads For VFW Post

Lt. Det. James E. Van has warned local merchants that an unidentified man is soliciting unauthorized ads from local business firms under the pretense that the material will be used by Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Lt. Van said Guy Smith, an official at the VFW, reported the local veterans organization was approached by the man who sought to make a contract with the VFW to solicit the ads on a percentage basis.

Smith told police the contract was refused but that since the conference several days ago local business establishments have been approached and have bought ads from the man.

A local bakery and a beauty salon both paid $10 for ads from the unknown solicitor, Lt. Van stated, receiving receipts for the money signed with a stamped signature. The police lieutenant said the stamped signature was obviously faked.

Lt. Van said a description of the man placed his age at about 45 or 50 years, 5 feet 11 inches tall, 160 pounds with a large body frame and stooped shoulders. He had dark, greying hair and was wearing a dark checked coat and cap, the lieutenant stated.

Police Find 25 Hubcaps

SALISBURY (U.P.) — State Police turned up 25 hubcaps and other auto accessories after stopping a car carrying three youths yesterday.

Harold Berry Powell, 18, of Gordonsville, home on leave from Great Lakes Naval Training Center, was held in Wicomico County Jail. The other youths, 17 and 15, were released in custody of their parents.

State Trooper Dexter Ayers said the trio admitted taking the hubcaps and other accessories during the past week in Salisbury, Snow Hill and Pocomoke City. The other items included a pair of fender skirts and an auto mirror.

Judge See Rules WM Railway Assessment Too High

KEYSER — Circuit Judge Ernest A. See has ruled that the proper assessment for 1955 and 1956 on the Western Maryland Railway property for tax purposes should be 9 1/2 million dollars.

The assessment by the West Virginia Board of Public Works was 13 million in 1955 and 15 million for 1956. Judge See's ruling makes the fourth and fifth times since the early 1940s that the railway has won circuit court reductions of its assessments.

Still pending before Judge See in Mineral County circuit Court is another Western Maryland appeal from a 1957 assessment fixed by the Board of Public Works at 12 1/2 million dollars.

One of the three previous reductions won at the circuit court level was upheld by the State Supreme Court. That was a cut from $11,074,200 to $8,504,200 provided by a Randolph County Circuit Court order in 1951.

But in the only other State Supreme Court action stemming from the railroad's running battle with the board, the appellate judges sustained a board assessment figure of $11,250,000 for 1954.

Despite the pending nature of the circuit court litigation, Western Maryland paid in full tax bills of $237,894 and $272,812 for 1955 and 1956, respectively, based on the Board of Public Works assessments.

The railroad also paid, as of last Oct. 24, a sum of $112,238 representing half of its 1957 bill of $224,475. Judge See said hearing of the 1957 appeal would hinge on whether the state appeals his 1955, 56 ruling.

The attorney general's office in Charleston is expected to carry out Judge See's latest ruling to the full pending the outcome of legal action that year.

The company explained that it wanted to take advantage of a 2 1/2-per cent discount public utilities receive for one-time remittances.

At that time, there also was an agreement between railroad and state that any reductions in assessment and tax bill won in court would be credited in computation of 1955 taxes.

Records in the utility tax division of the State Auditor's Office in Charleston showed that the railroad also paid its 1954 taxes in full pending the outcome of legal action that year.

PRODUCER AND STAR — And that isn't the producer at the right. That's the star, Raymond Burr, who plays Perry Mason, the lawyer-detective in the CBS-TV series of that name. Former movie star Gail Patrick, left, handles the show as TV's only woman executive producer.

Local Bakery Union Has Joined New Organization

Local bakery workers have voted to affiliate with a new union set up by the AFL-CIO. The new AFL-CIO Bakery Workers unit, headed by Ernest C. Yaider, is notifying national, state and area AFL-CIO bodies of its affiliation action. Mease said the Cumberland local was chartered as Local 453 in 1902 and expects to keep the same number in the union chartered by the AFL-CIO on December 12. The ousted Bakery Workers union was chartered by the AFL in 1886, Mease recalled. The three directives were received by C. E. Stutzman, secretary of the AFL-CIO Central Body and vice president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, one of the three labor organizations recently ousted by the national AFL-CIO. Stutzman expressed surprise over the receipt of the letters from George Mease, president of the AFL-CIO. He said "Mease gave us the double cross" and explained that the AFL-CIO head reported at the AFL-CIO national convention that the body would take no action soon at the state and local level. The letters, Stutzman said, will be presented to the Executive Board of the Western Maryland Labor Council. The Board is scheduled to meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Al-legacy Labor Temple, according to F. Patrick Allender, president, who declined to predict the action of the board. Informed labor sources said it is possible that the letters may be turned over to a committee for study and report. Such a move was termed likely because action is still pending by the Maryland State and District of Columbia AFL-CIO Council, which has been ordered to expel Teamster Union locals. Expulsion of the locals would mean the automatic ouster of officials and delegates who would no longer be able to qualify for office. Stutzman, who is one of five Teamster officials on the state AFL-CIO, said he has received no word of any meetings planned by the state unit. Area labor officials said it is possible the affected labor leaders might retain their posts in state and local councils through honorary labor cards issued by other unions. Stutzman said he has been offered honorary cards but has not accepted. In a letter on the Teamster roster, Mease cited Article 4, Section 6 of the AFL-CIO constitution, saying local Teamster unions are not eligible to state and local AFL-CIO bodies and ordered expulsion. A second letter said the charter of the Laundry Workers International Union and Cleaning and Dye House Workers was revoked. A third letter reported the revocation of the charter of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers and asked local and area bodies to aid in the establishment of the AFL-CIO chartered American Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union AFL-CIO. Stutzman said Teamsters Local 453 will pay per capita taxes for its 1,600 members up to the end of December and then quit. The union, he added, will continue to cooperate with other locals as it has in the past.

Airy Fritters For Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When cranberries are added to a batter similar to that used for French fritots, you have delicate crisp mouthfuls with tart fruit flavor that come out of the deep-fat fryer to be served as hot bread or dessert.

American fritter batters usually call for more flour than does this recipe, as well as for baking powder. But have no fears—these fritters are airy, oval-shaped and lightly puffed.

This recipe is brand new. The first time we made the fritters, we sprinkled them with confectioners sugar as soon as they had been deep-fat fried and drained; then we served them with extra mounds of the sugar on individual plates for dipping. (You may wish to use extra-fine granulated sugar instead of the confectioners sugar.)

Another time we offered them with hard sauce. You might like to accompany them with maple syrup or a sweet and spicy fresh cranberry sauce.

During frying, turn the fritters over as soon as they have browned on one side, using a skimmer, a flat wire ship or a perforated kitchen spoon. We add this precaution because we've seen experienced cooks jab at fritters with kitchen forks—a practice not designed to have fritters retain puffiness. For draining the fritters after they are fried, you can use several thicknesses of paper toweling.

Cranberry Fritters

Ingredients: 1 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, 2 eggs (separated), 2/3 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine (melted), 1/4 teaspoon almond flavoring, 2 cups fresh cranberries (halved), confectioners sugar.

Method: Sift together the flour, salt and granulated sugar. Beat egg yolks with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and pale-colored; gradually beat in milk, alternately with melted butter and almond flavoring. Beat sifted dry ingredients into mixture, a small amount at a time; continue to beat until smooth. With clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into mixture with halved cranberries. (Batter will be soft.) Use a tablespoon as a measure and drop batter into hot (370 to 375 degrees) deep fat. Cook each fritter until golden brown, turning once—about 3 minutes. Drain on several thicknesses of paper towels; sprinkle with confectioners sugar; serve hot. Fritters are tart, so you may wish to serve extra sugar for individual dipping. Makes about 3 dozen.

Beef, Pork Featured In Most Markets

By The Associated Press

Tired of eating turkey and ham? The nation's supermarkets apparently think a lot of people have had enough of the two for awhile, for many will feature pork and the cheaper cuts of beef this week-end.

The less expensive cuts reflect both a tight beef market and recognition that holiday gifts and entertaining have left many a household on the short side.

Chuch roast, a perennial friend of the budget-minded housewife, will be prominently mentioned this week, along with beef blade roast and cross rib roast. Steak, from 4 to 8 cents a pound higher in some areas, and sirloin, up 4 cents, get very little promotion this time around.

Similarly, the most frequently mentioned pork items are pork loins, sausage and chops, rather than the holiday hams. Chickens and leg of lamb are offered at lower prices than usual in some stores.

Egg prices seem to be somewhat irregular across the country, ranging from 4 cents a dozen lower to 4 cents a dozen higher.

Bargains are hard to find this week at the vegetable counters. The normally lower supplies of vegetables at this time of year are cut into even further by the freeze in Florida, which produces a large proportion of our winter vegetables.

Best of the available lot, produce men say, are potatoes and onions, plus cabbage where it's available from nearby fields. Such root items as carrots and turnips are good buys, while lettuce is a fairly good buy.

But sweet corn, beans, eggplant and the like—all from Florida—are scarce and relatively expensive. Cucumbers, too, are high although somewhat cheaper than a week ago.

The embargo on shipments of Florida citrus now has been lifted, but oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are high priced and likely to stay that way for most of the rest of the winter, market men say.

This leaves apples as about the best buy, although some varieties are getting a bit ripe and must be eaten quickly. Pears are higher this week, along with California's emperor grapes.

Mexican cantaloups, arriving earlier than ever, are available in some markets, but they're truly a luxury item. Retail prices may go as high as 75 cents apiece.

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg, 1/4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted), 4 to 6 medium-sized apples, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in shortening until particles are fine. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white; add milk and lemon rind; beat enough to mix. Stir into sifted dry ingredients. Press into bottom of a buttered baking pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches); brush with 1 tablespoon of the melted butter. Cover and refrigerate. Pare and core apples; cut each into eighths. Arrange apple slices in rows over dough. Mix remaining 1 tablespoon butter with 4 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over apples. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until apples are tender—about 35 minutes. Serve warm.

Afternoon Drink? Offer Chilled Soup

Pleasant afternoons are bound to bring unexpected guests to your doorstep, so be prepared with cans of tomato soup chilled in the refrigerator.

In separate bowls or shakers, mix each soup with an equal amount of cold milk.

Then guests can choose one of the other or a mixture of the two.

Serve with straws for sipping this festivity refreshing cold soup-milk beverage.

This Sauce Needs No Cooking

AMERICAN HOLLANDAISE SAUCE accompanies cauliflower, or made into Bearnaise it embellishes skillet steak. Requires no cooking.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Sputnik or no, the American who invented the electric blender deserves to be blessed by all cooks. Especially by new cooks who long to prepare French-type dishes.

If it is the height of your ambition to serve Eggs Benedictine, poached salmon, cauliflower, asparagus or broccoli with Hollandaise Sauce, then you can do so easily with this recipe via the blender. You can also add to this Hollandaise and achieve Sauce Bearnaise to accompany steak. Either way, this sauce—which requires no cooking—can compare favorably in texture and flavor with the French Hollandaise that is made over heat.

If you are serving only two or three, and you should have some of the Hollandaise or Sauce Bearnaise left over, refrigerate it in a tightly-covered jar. Then use it instead of mayonnaise, as we do, in the filling for stuffed eggs or in a hard-cooked egg filling for sandwiches or a spread for canapés. We find guests are usually intrigued by the flavor and ask what we did to make the eggs taste so good.

American Hollandaise Sauce
Ingredients: 1/4 pound (1/2 cup) butter, 3 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt, cayenne.

Method: In a small saucepan

(1 pint) melt the butter; heat until it bubbles and foams all over the top, but do not let it brown. Meanwhile, put the egg yolks, lemon juice, salt and a pinch of cayenne into the electric blender container; cover container; flick motor on and off (at high speed) twice. Remove cover. Turn motor on (at high speed) and in a slow stream pour in the hot foaming butter. Turn into small bowl to serve. Makes 1/2 cup—enough for 4 servings.

Sauce Bearnaise
Ingredients: 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon dried crushed shallots, 2 tablespoons minced shallots, American Hollandaise Sauce.

Method: In a small saucepan (1 pint) mix the water, vinegar, pepper, tarragon and shallots. Bring to a boil; cook rapidly until almost all the liquid evaporates. Add to American Hollandaise Sauce in blender container; cover; turn motor on (at high speed) for 5 seconds. Makes about 1 cup. Serve at once.

Note: The white bulb of green onions (scallions) may be substituted for the shallots.

Puree cooked lentils for a soup or leave them whole. Serve the soup with thin rounds of frankfurter browned in a little butter.

Salmon-Grape Dish Flavorful

Here is a variation from the straight meat and potato routine:

Salmon Veronique
2 7-ounce cans salmon
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup minced onion
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1 cup light cream
1 cup seedless white grapes
4 to 6 patty shells (homemade or from the baker)

Drain and flake salmon. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender. Add flour and mustard and stir until well blended. Remove pan from heat. Gradually add chicken broth (canned or made with 1 chicken bouillon cube and 1 cup hot water), stirring to blend. Add lemon juice, salt, cayenne and light cream. Return pan to heat and cook, stirring, until thickened. Add salmon, stir to blend and cook until hot. Add grapes and cook a minute longer to heat grapes. Spoon into patty shells (or onto slices or hot toast). Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Some good cooks like to add sausage meat to a ground beef loaf.

Legislature To Seek New Tax Sources

Underwood Calls For School, Road Financial Aid

CHARLESTON (AP) — The heads of both houses of the Legislature indicated they have no definite ideas at present for raising the additional 50 to 65 million dollars required to finance the administration's proposed road and school programs.

House Speaker W.E. Flannery (D-Logan) said he expected the coming 30-day session of the Legislature, during which the two programs will receive consideration, to be a "very rough" affair. "Anytime you try to find 50 to 65 million dollars in additional revenue, you can expect lots of discussion and argument," he said.

But Flannery and Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy), leaders of the majority Democratic party, found no fault when interviewed yesterday with the special items Republican Gov. Underwood will include in his call when the Legislature convenes Jan. 8.

Flannery said there was nothing "except what he had to include." He and Bean generally agreed that the only two really big items were roads and schools.

School, Road Problems

But Bean commented that the session, envisioned primarily for consideration of a budget, would be pressed to give attention to the problems centered about schools and roads.

Underwood's call, announced last Saturday, included legislation to provide additional taxes and revenues for the state's roads and enactment of financial incentives to encourage counties to raise additional funds for the support of public schools.

His call will go before a Legislature with Democratic majorities in both houses. In the House of Delegates, 58 members are Democrats, compared with 42 Republicans, while in the Senate the ratio is 21-11.

Flannery said he thought inclusion of the school problem in the governor's call "opens up the whole school question," including teachers' salaries.

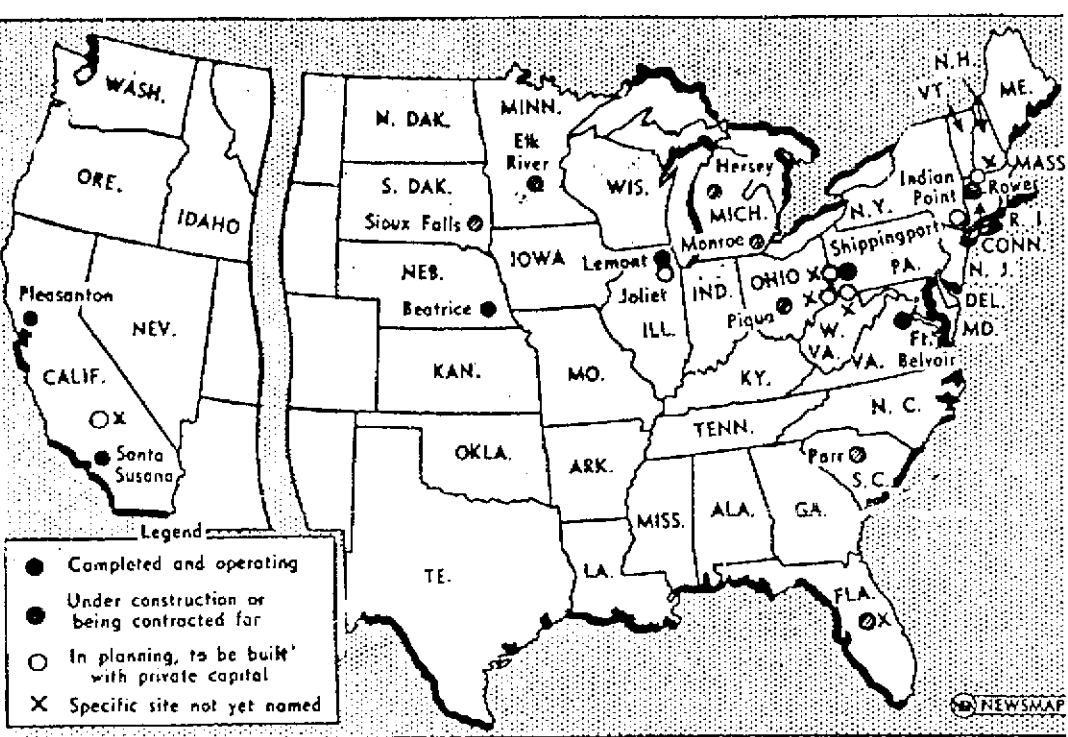

Underwood endorsed the incentive approach for improving state education as outlined by State School Supt. R. Virgil Rohrbough.

Experimental Period

Rohrbough's idea of providing additional state money for counties which could qualify for it by renewed local effort could cost up to 15 million dollars more a year for a proposed five-year experimental period.

Both Flannery and Bean expressed general approval of the incentive principle, but neither felt that

THE ATOM COMES OF AGE — The recent opening of the Westinghouse atomic electric power plant at Shippingport, Pa., put the spotlight on the growth of "atoms for peace." Newsmap shows five atomic plants now in operation, delivering civilian power. Nine more are now under construction or negotiating contracts. And seven plants, to be built by private capital without any direct governmental financing, are in the planning stage. In addition to those in this country, six other plants, to be supplied with nuclear fuel by the U. S., are under construction or being contracted for in Anchorage, Alaska; Belgium, Brazil, Cuba, Italy and Mexico.

State Income Tax Has Number Of Changes

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Some changes in the Maryland income tax laws were noted today by Comptroller J. Millard Tawes' office for the benefit of Marylanders who will be filling out returns from now to April 15.

Parents of working teenagers and college students will be able to claim them as exemptions even if they earned more than the $500 limit previously set by state law. The only requirement now is that they be dependent on the parent for more than half of their support.

Thousands of residents in the District of Columbia area, and in Virginia and Delaware, who work in Maryland won't have to file a return in this state for the first time in years if they pay income tax in their home state or the District.

Residents who have moved into Maryland during the year will have to pay the state only for a percentage of their income, based on the length of time they have been here. Previously they paid for the entire year if their state had no income tax.

Accountants and other tax experts in the business of preparing returns for other people will have to sign those returns and be responsible with the taxpayer for any fraudulent reports.

Military personnel living in Maryland and paying tax to this state will no longer have an exemption on the first $1,500 of their income. State law was changed to conform with a federal income tax provision that the exemption apply only in time of war or to personnel in a combat zone.

These were the major changes enacted in the tax law during the 1957 session of the General Assembly.

The elimination of a non-resident tax return by residents of the District of Columbia, Virginia and Delaware who work in Maryland was an emergency act which went into effect last February.

The comptroller's office asked all employers to refund any tax they had withheld from these employees in January and February, and not to collect any more. Some of these refunds were not made, however, and in such cases it will be necessary for the taxpayer to file a return with the State of Maryland to collect what had been withheld from his pay.

Non-residents previously were able to get back what they had paid in Maryland tax, but they had to go through the nuisance of filing a return each year and then wait for the refund. The new act is designed to eliminate a headache for both the taxpayer and the income tax division.

Non-residents working in Maryland from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey and other states which do not have laws with reciprocal provisions for Marylanders will have to continue filing a return and paying tax to this state.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division here, said his office has mailed out some 900,000 forms which will be due back by April 15. They were posted right after Christmas.

Marsh said it would be extremely helpful to his office if all taxpayers enclosed their original withholding slips with their forms and remittances. He said some taxpayers had been sending the carbon copy—the taxpayer's personal copy—instead of the top slip and this just delays processing the return until the original can be obtained.

He said much delay also would be eliminated if persons filing more than one return send separate checks for each return. Then if there is a mistake in one form it doesn't tie up all the others.

A $1,000 damage suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by the Thompson Buick Corporation, 429 North Mechanic Street, against Hays Edwards, Sec. RD 2.

Appeal Set In WM Run Cancellation

Attorney To Ask Court To Review Commission Order

The attorney for the protestants against the withdrawal of Western Maryland Railway train service between Elkins and Cumberland has indicated he plans to petition the West Virginia State Supreme Court of Appeals for a review of the West Virginia Public Service Commission order granting the discontinued service.

The PSC last week authorized the rail firm to discontinue Trains 9 and 10 on the Cumberland-Elkins run, with the last run scheduled for Monday.

Bonn Brown, Elkins attorney who represented the protestants at the PSC hearing, said the order was granted on the basis that public convenience and necessity no longer require the continuance of the passenger train service, and that the limited use of the passenger train service does not justify the cost of its operation.

Expansion Hampered Brown's arguments were based on the ground that expected industrial development and proposed expansion in the area served by the Cumberland-Elkins run will be hampered by the removal of the trains.

Van J. Parsons of Cumberland, who appeared before the Public Service Commission as general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, also argued against discontinuing the trains.

Parsons, who represents the men in train and yard service on the Western Maryland, said he was protesting because he was interested in keeping jobs for the members he represents, and because he thought people in the area were entitled to service because of the revenue received by the Western Maryland from its West Virginia operations.

He also noted that the mountainous terrain makes the route valuable to the locality, particularly when winter weather makes the highways hazardous.

Brown also informed the commission that the rapidly growing recreational area in Tucker County would suffer if train service was discontinued. The Elkins attorney also criticized the carrier for its failure to promote the use of the trains by other than the area which it serves. He also noted that little service was given in the way of information on tickets regarding connecting railroad lines.

Negotiations Failed The Western Maryland connects with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company at Durbin, W. Va., some 40 miles from Elkins. Brown pointed out that the C&O has passenger train service from Roncove, in Greenbrier County, to Durbin, located in Pocahontas County.

The possibility of providing three round trips a week from Roncove to Cumberland by means of a Diesel rail car was explored by the Public Service Commission at a number of conferences with attorneys of C&O and Western Maryland, but negotiations were terminated when it was determined the costs would be unduly burdensome upon the railroads.

Trains No. 9 and 10 are the last passenger trains being operated by the Western Maryland in West Virginia, with the exception of a mixed passenger and mail train that runs between Durbin and Elkins.

Numerous stops are made on the 112-mile run between this city and Elkins, including Keyser in Mineral County, and Thomas and Parsons in Tucker County.

Arrangement Made The Western Maryland informed the PSC that after the trains are discontinued railway express will be handled by over-the-road shipment on a cost-plus arrangement, and that such service will be as good, or better, than the present rail service.

Loss of passengers and increased cost of operation were the main arguments made by the Western Maryland in its plea to halt its passenger service. Last January 1, it was pointed out, the railroad lost its mail contract on Trains 9 and 10. The 1956 revenue for carrying the mail amounted to $53,123 or some 65 per cent of the total revenue, $50,501.

Magistrate At Oldtown Makes December Report

Magistrate Dayton M. Lewis at Oldtown had a busy December with 13 cases involving violation of game laws and four motor vehicle cases.

Magistrate Dayton assessed fines of $100 and costs against five men for illegal deer kills. There were four cases of hunters with state-wide Maryland licenses who are actually residents of the District of Columbia or nearby West Virginia points. These men were each fined $50 and costs.

The balance of the game law violations were carrying loaded guns in cars or failing to have hunting licenses in possession while in the woods. These fines were $20 and costs.

Four motorists were fined a total of $44.50 for infractions of state motor laws.

Meanwhile, local police arrested a woman at her home in connection with a series of bad checks. She was questioned by the State's Attorney's office and released until Saturday morning.

Police said Boswell is also wanted in Hardy County on similar charges.

New Record Set In Mail Cancellations

Last Year's Total Surpassed; One-day Handle Not Broken

Predictions that a new record would be set in Christmas mail cancellations were borne out when a check at the Post Office revealed that the number for the period from December 9 through December 24 totaled 1,225,700.

Cancellations for the same period in 1956, when the previous record was set, numbered 1,210,275, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

The postmaster pointed out that cancellations were running slightly behind last year's day-by-day total until December 23 when 54,900 were recorded, compared to 12,200 on the same day in 1956.

Up Christmas Eve Christmas Eve cancellations during the half-day of operations were also slightly higher than in 1956, Conlon pointing out that 19,800 were logged this year, 300 more than on last Christmas Eve.

One other prediction, that a single-day cancellation would be set, failed to come through, the postmaster explaining that the greatest total for one day this season was 158,900 recorded on December 16. This was well below the 175,000 registered on December 17, 1956.

Conlon said the daily cancellations were more equal this year, pointing out that a steady increase was noted from the first day of the Christmas mailing season, when 32,200 letters were cancelled.

Decline More Gradual After the peak day was reached the decline was also more gradual than in previous years, with the only increase being noted on December 23 when a new record was assured.

While no figures were available on the amount of parcel post processed at the Post Office, James W. Fatkin, assistant superintendent of mails, said it was generally agreed that the volume this year was more than in any previous Christmas season.

Fatkin said he figured both incoming and outgoing parcel post set new records, and commented that handling procedures were much smoother than in 1956 when the Cumberland Post Office was designated as a trapping center.

The experience gained last year was of great advantage in avoiding mail and parcel post tie-ups this year, Fatkin said. The smaller post offices in the area also gained by last year's experience, he stated.

Conlon said the new Station A facility in South Cumberland, and the use of the LaVale Fire Hall as a parcel post by the LaVale Branch Post Office, were factors in the smooth handling of this year's record-setting mail volume.

Car Struck By Guided "Sputnik"

A local motorist was shocked yesterday afternoon when his auto was struck by "Sputnik III" while traveling along Virginia Avenue.

Actually "Sputnik III" didn't arrive in Cumberland, but the car driven by John R. Ruppenkemp, 18 Elder Street, was struck by a dog hurled at the vehicle by a local man.

This morning the man, Louis Donius, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction and fined $101.45 for his Sputnik III.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick sentenced the man after finding him guilty of violating section 173a of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Code. The law is listed as "Hurling a stone or missile at a motor vehicle."

The "missile" in this case happened to be a dog. Court attaches noted they have had a number of unusual cases in the past, but this marked the first time they handled a dog throwing case.

The case developed yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Ruppenkemp, were driving along Virginia Avenue near the subway.

As the car approached the subway a flying object was hurled at it. The object turned out to be a dog and bounced off the front end of the car and into a storm sewer.

Police said Ruppenkemp almost wrecked his vehicle, and that the dog was trapped in the storm sewer for some time before being rescued.

Defendant Committed

A passerby, James P. Carroll, notified police and also obtained a warrant charging Donius with cruelty to animals. He was ordered committed to the Allegany County Jail in default of $500 bond on this charge.

Magistrate Dick fined Donius $101.45 and sentenced him to six months on the missile throwing charge.

He indicated he would appeal the sentence to the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sowers was discovered in an upstairs room of the large farm home by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lulu B. Sowers, about 6:30 p. m. on Tuesday.

Trooper Dorsey and Russell said the man had died from a wound in his neck. Police said his throat was cut from one side to the other.

Police said the man resided with his brother, Earl C. Sowers, and had been in ill health for some time.

A single edge razor blade was found near his body.

In the Oakland vicinity and at Thomas and Davis, four inches of snow fell.

Fund Slated For Exchange

The board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland has voted approval of a $410,000 appropriation for new central office equipment as part of a dial changeover at Frostburg.

The entire project is expected to cost in excess of $500,000 with the building contract estimated at $100,000. The George Construction Company of Cumberland will erect the building.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears: Sentiments in some quarters swinging around to belief rails are forming a bottom and should be bought here.

Heart's Energy Under Study

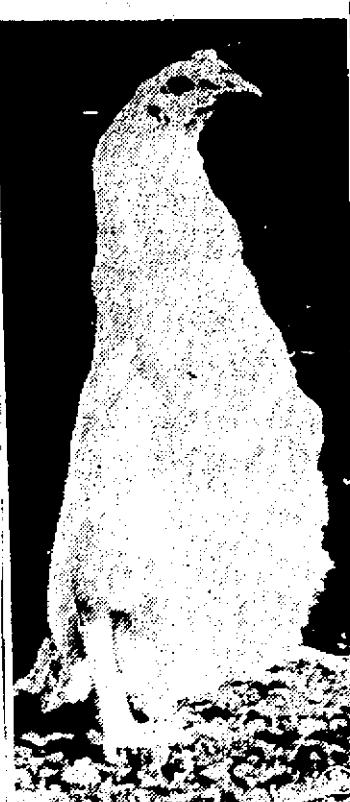

CORVALLIS, Ore. — (INS) — How the heart gets energy enough to beat 100,000 times a day and pump 3,000 gallons of blood is being studied by biochemists at Oregon State College.

Dr. Vernon H. Chelidion, director of the Science Research Institute at O. S. C., and Dr. Robert Newburgh, biochemist at the college, are heading the study with a grant of more than $20,000 from the American Heart Association and the Oregon Heart Association.

Dr. Chelidion estimates that at least 50 complex reactions take place to change blood sugar to energy in the heart muscle.

A Great Explorer

Roald Amundsen, who discovered the South Pole in 1911, loose from a sales barn here. The calves ran through town for 17 hours until they were all rounded up.

SICK CHICK?—A real sick chicken is this specimen, who makes like a penguin at Dions, France. Even without "formal attire," she highlights the rest of the barnyard by walking around in this perpendicular position. The rest of the world's chicken population probably consider the upstart as mad as a wet hen.

Roundup Time

ELK CITY, Okla. — It was like the old cattle driving days when 50 head of calves broke loose from a sales barn here. The calves ran through town for 17 hours until they were all rounded up.

Business Briefs...

NEW YORK — (INS) — Contracts for future construction in the U.S. totaled $2,370,699,000 in November, about the same as in November 1956. The monthly construction report by F. W. Dodge Corp. show contracts for housing and heavy engineering rose, but were offset by a drop in non-residential building. Residential building contracts of $929,987,000 were three per cent above the year-earlier level, marking the fifth month of gains in this category.

NEW YORK — (INS) — The American Distilling Co. today reported net income of $1,494,000, or $3.44 per share in the fiscal year ended September 30, compared with $1,332,000, or $3.07 per share, a year ago. President Russell Brown noted profits were an all-time high, except for the abnormally good year of 1946. Gross Sales rose about $5 million to $76,207,000.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and affiliates plan capital expenditures of $1,250,000,000 in 1958, about the same amount as spent this year. Chairman Eugene Holman, in a year-end statement today, said 1957 has been "difficult" for the oil industry. He added that next year "will continue to present problems of excess supply and price weakness."

But, Holman said, "over the future years the outlook is for continued increase in the demand for petroleum, although the year-to-year rates of increase are not expected to run as high as in the post World War II periods to date."

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Steel Magazine said today that world steel production in 1957 reached a record 322,000,000 net tons, despite a dip in output in the U.S., the largest single producer. The magazine said the 11,400,000-ton net tonnage was up 7.3 per cent over the 10,600,000-ton net tonnage in 1956.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Middle South Utilities, Inc., and its subsidiaries announced record net income of $19,209,548 for the year ended Nov. 30, a rise of 19 per cent over the previous 12 months. The net equaled $2.38 per common share. Operating revenue of $170.5 million was up 7.3 per cent over the $160.5 million in 1956.

TONGUE-TYPED — Blond, but not fair-haired as far as the photographer is concerned, is this lad in Melbourne, Australia. The bare-faced boy with cheek apparently refused to say "cheese" for this picture.

Agricultural Briefs

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Agriculture Department reports that effective advertising has helped boost price consumption in the U. S. 11 per cent during the past three years.

The average American was eating almost six pounds of rice this year — enough when combined with big exports and smaller production to reduce the nation's rice surplus by three million hundredweight.

The rice carryover when the next marketing year opens August 1, according to the "rice situation" report, will total about 17,300,000 cwt. Last August 1 it was 20,100,000 cwt.

The department expects a 1958 rice crop of 45,900,000 cwt. The disposal outlook is good, since world demand for rice is increasing and potential importers are in a better financial position.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Scotch pine is rapidly increasing in popularity among Christmas tree buyers, according to Agriculture Department reports.

Although the pine is a little too bushy for small apartments, it has thick foliage and pleases housewives because the needles won't shed on the floor.

Sales of Scotch pine in the before-Christmas season, it is stated, increased greatly over earlier years.

What To Wear

No Need To Freeze, Man; Long Johns Are Back

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — If you live in brrrr country, it's high time you hopped into your long underwear and stopped shivering.

For a few years, men seemed to shun the comforting warmth of the long underwear. Maybe it was because all the gags about them embarrassed some poor chaps, maybe it was just one of those inexplicable trends. Whatever it was, it seems to have passed. Long underwear is selling again.

(And, though it really doesn't concern this column, it's interesting to note that there's a big upswing in sales of long underwear for ladies, too.)

One recent innovation that seems to have caught on is specialized long underwear for skiers. Carter's calls theirs ski warmwear, which sounds pretty. They come in red, and they have long sleeves and stirrups across the bottom of the legs, so they'll stay where they belong, even during severe slaloms.

Even if you don't ski, this stuff is handy on cold, cold days. So is the thermal long underwear, made by Carter's, Cooper's and almost all the better underwear manufacturers.

Thermal fabrics are patented constructions, designed to hold body heat through air pockets. Thus, they are warm without being too heavy. There are several kinds of thermal fabrics, each having claims made for it and, probably, all being about equal.

There's no point in freezing. If you live in a cold climate, long underwear is only sensible. You may look silly, but you'll be cozy.

While on the subject of clothing and winter, there's an interesting thought from Carl Forney, president of the International Association of Clothing Designers. Forney happily notes that a man of this age, to be warm, need not look like a grizzly bear.

"In the Gaslight Era," Forney says, "when a man left for work, he wore clothes that had a total weight of approximately 20 half-pounds more than a man of today wears. And he was no warmer."

The man of 1900, Forney says, wore a big, heavy, bulky great-coat, muffler, woolen gloves, leggings, woolen socks, vest, sweat-ter, spats, earmuffs—everything, but a double-breasted hot water bottle. He had to, because the place where he worked was usually poorly heated and the public transportation he used to get there was often not heated at all.

But nowadays, he says, buses, trains and subways are pleasantly warm. All offices and factories are comfortable. And, besides, modern fibers have been developed which retain heat without being bulky. Result—a warmer man with 20 pounds less clothing.

Ain't progress grand?

The report from London that a top British clothing expert believes kilts will become popular in the U.S. in a year or two has not panicked the American pants business.

They think that if kilts become popular at all, it will be either as a substitute for Bermuda shorts as summer wear for the hot polloi, or, in modified versions, as attire for women.

But kilts as a regular feature.

SKI WARMWEAR is this era's kind of thermal fabrics, each having claims made for it and, probably, all being about equal.

of the American man's wardrobe?

"It'd be a brae, bricht, moonlicht night before that happens, d'ya ken," says one manufacturer. Aye, he's right.

Corriganville Fire Company Installs

New officers of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company were installed last night in ceremonies at the fire house.

Among those installed were Harry C. Walters, president, and Harry W. Martz, fire chief. Mrs. William Clauson was installed as president of the auxiliary.

Paul Haberlein, president of the Allegheny-Garrett County Volunteer Fireman's Association, and Mrs. Cromwell Zembower, president of the association's auxiliary, were installing officers.

Keyser Guard Unit Given Order To Reduce Strength

KEYSER—Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion of the National Guard here has been given verbal notification by the adjutant general's office the unit will be returned to reduced strength effective, early this month. The reduction comes as part of a national cut by the Army.
Capt. Henry E. Wilt, commanding officer, said the local unit is one of the few in the country that was authorized for full strength by the Department of Defense and National Guard Bureau.
The over strength in the unit will be reduced by transfer to inactive National Guard, or entry into active duty by the individual concerned, according to Warrant Officer Robert L. Brummage, unit personnel administrator.
The Keyser National Guard was recently issued a gold certificate for superior performance at the summer camp at Camp Breckinridge, Ky.
Capt. Wilt attributed the superior rating to the fact that the unit operated with full strength in organization and equipment. Six howitzer sections were used. He said the economy cut will give the unit a waiting list for new recruits who can only be signed up when an enlisted member has been discharged.

If an experiment works in spring training this season, there is likely to be a revolutionary change in baseball bats.

The Baltimore Orioles are going to test a new fibre glass bat which is reported to be much stronger than the conventional thin-handled stick used today.

The fibre glass bat has been perfected by Ed Stewart, former outfielder of the Chicago White Sox. The regular-type bat, according to Baltimore sports editor Jesse Linticum, is given a resin base with a fibre glass cloth wrapping lightly sprayed with sand.

Only the first 18 inches of the bat, beginning at the handle, is processed. The weight and length are not altered. American League rules provide that the handle may be roughed with tape or twine, but Stewart's treatment goes beyond that, thus making the bat illegal for regular league games.

If the rule is changed to permit the use of the fibre glass bat, major league teams could save money. Stewart informed Jack Dunn, assistant general manager of the Orioles, that the first bat he treated four years ago is still in use in the North American Aviation Softball League.

Twenty-five bats have been since treated and only eight have been broken. Each bat is guaranteed four years.

Last year the Orioles used 1,000 bats. Four hundred were purchased at the start of spring training and 600 when the season opened. As many as 20 bats were broken in a single day during the spring training period, the high number being due to ballers being off in their timing. Bats cost $2.75 each.

The Giants and Dodgers, it is reported, are also planning to try out the fibre glass bat.

Breeding Coaches

The first intercollegiate football game of blood-stained record was played by Rutgers and Princeton in 1869. Since that earth-shaking event, there have been coaches by the assorted thousands, but astoundingly few have been touched with authentic genius. You can count them on the fingers of one hand.

Obviously one of the genius coaches is Gen. Robert R. Neyland, who has been affiliated with athletics at the University of Tennessee for 30 years. College football has perhaps never known a greater student or better friend than General Robert Neyland who, except for two periods on army duty, served as head football coach at Tennessee from 1927 through 1952.

When Neyland began his career at Tennessee, he told a group of 35 youths, "Fellows, I understand there isn't a single Tennessee man coaching football today. We are going to change that. We're going to develop good football coaches as well as good football teams."

The record shows that Neyland did just that. He has a record of 171 wins, 27 losses and 12 ties. His success as a coach cannot be reckoned in the won-loss column only. It is also reflected by the men to whom he has given something of himself.

Among these are some of the prominent head coaches throughout the country — Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee, Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, Bob Woodruff of Florida, Murray Warmath of Minnesota, Phil Dickens of Indiana, Billy Meek of Southern Boston Bruins that extended Methodist, DeWitt Weaver of Memphis State University and York Rangers.

You beat a typewriter to a pulp, opening period and after a score-writing the names of Neyland less second stanza. Henri Rich-scholars who are serving as col-lard broke the deadlock with a lege assistants and high school goal in the third period. Claude coaches — they are scattered Provost followed with another from border-to-border and coast-Montreal goal, making Real-to-coast, qualifying in the top Chevrefile's last-ditch Boston score so much window dressing.

Neyland, says Gus Manning, Tennessee sports public-ity director, has sent more men into the coaching field than any man alive.

The only Cumberland griddle to play under Neyland at Tennessee was Jim Gaffney following his graduation from Allegheny High, Jim, who was a halfback for several seasons with the Washington Redskins after being discharged as an Army flyer during World War II, also took a fling at coaching, tutoring the LaSalle High Explorers in 1949.

Navy's Big Guns Sink Rice, 20-7, In Cotton

By SHELBY SCATES

DALLAS, Tex. — (INS) — The 1958 Cotton Bowl football game will go down in naval history as one of the most memorable games ever played by a Midshipman team.

The Middles of Annapolis dropped anchor in Dallas yesterday, cleared the deck for action and swept to a 20 to 7 victory over the Rice Owls before a packed house of 75,504 fans.

Led by able quarterback Tom Forrestal and guard Tony Stromie, the slightly favored Navy eleven became the first Eastern team to win the game in the 22-contest history of the Cotton Bowl.

Forrestal Top Back Forrestal, who led Navy to an 8-1-1 season, displayed his aerial wizardry and field generalship to such perfection he was voted the game's "outstanding back."

Stromie, Navy's hard-hitting guard, playing with an ailing leg, was voted the game's "outstanding lineman."

Rice's famed one-two passing punch of King Hill and Frank Ryan failed to click sufficiently at the right time although Ryan connected on 13 of 26 pass attempts. Ryan also ran for 69 yards to become Rice's top ground gainer. He was the total offense leader with 220 yards.

Outside of Ryan's performance, Rice partisans had little to cheer about. The Navy team fired its power at the Rice line early in the game and literally tore it to shreds.

Veteran halfbacks Ned Oldham and Harry Hurst were joined by sophomore runner Roland Brandquist to lead the Navy offense. Navy's second unit led by quarterback Joe Tranchini scored Navy's first touchdown in the first quarter.

Rice Offense Slips Brandquist recovered a Ryan fumble on the Owls' 33 and in five plays moved the ball to the Rice one. Tranchini bucked over for the score.

Rice's offense came to a sputtering stop on the next series of plays and Navy's Forrestal astounded command on his own 34 to lead his teammates to their second touchdown.

Forrestal struck through the air using ends Pete Jokanovich and John Ruth as his targets to move the ball to the Rice 13. Harry Hurst, aided by a Forrestal block, cracked over the left side of Rice's line for the score.

Oldham's try for the extra point was good and Navy had a 13 to 0 halftime edge.

Navy took advantage of another Rice fumble early in the third period and headed for their third and final score. Taking over on the Rice 20 after Rice fullback Ray Chilton had fumbled on the kickoff, Navy scored in three plays. Oldham dashed 19 yards on a trap play up the middle for the touchdown.

Rice finally got moving in the third period by intercepting a pass on the Navy 36. Ryan took to the air and found Buddy Dial, and Ken Williams willing targets to move the ball to the Middles' eight-yard line. Ryan flipped the scoring toss to Williams for the score and Hill's extra point ended the scoring.

Montreal Begins 1958 With Win

By International News Service The new year is here but the Montreal Canadiens are the same old country — Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee, Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, Bob Woodruff of Florida, Murray Warmath of Minnesota, Phil Dickens of Indiana, Billy Meek of Southern Boston Bruins that extended Methodist, DeWitt Weaver of Memphis State University and York Rangers.

Both teams scored twice in the first opening period and after a score-writing the names of Neyland less second stanza. Henri Rich-scholars who are serving as col-lard broke the deadlock with a lege assistants and high school goal in the third period. Claude coaches — they are scattered Provost followed with another from border-to-border and coast-Montreal goal, making Real-to-coast, qualifying in the top Chevrefile's last-ditch Boston score so much window dressing.

In the only other game last night, Chicago edged Detroit, 4 to 3, to creep within five points of the fifth-place Red Wings.

WINNING FIELD GOAL—Halfback Don Sutherin (right) scores ball past some determined Oregon defenders for a fourth-period field goal which proved the margin of victory for Ohio State in 1958 Sun Bowl.

Bucks Shade Ducks With Last-Period Field Goal

By JOE ST. AMANT

PASADENA, Calif. — (INS) — That dry gulch, the Arroyo Seco, where the celebrated Rose Bowl is located, was Heartbreak Hollow for Oregon's spunky football team today.

The Ducks, 19-point underdogs who found few backers, fought the vaunted Ohio State Buckeyes almost, but not quite, to a standstill in the 44th Rose Bowl classic yesterday.

In the end they bowed to the Big 10 champions, edged out by a narrow 10-7 count, but only after a struggle in which Buckeye coach Woody Hayes, himself, said the breaks were "the only real edge in the ball game and we got them all."

Buckeyes Outgained

The Ducks gained 351 yards passing and rushing to Ohio State's 304 and they made 21 first downs to the Buckeye 19.

But the Ducks also fumbled twice, lost the ball twice on pass interceptions and failed in a field goal attempt at crucial points.

Ohio State, on the other hand, made no fumbles, had no passes intercepted and, in the fourth quarter, kicked the field goal that provided the margin of victory.

All of which caused Hayes to observe: "We won, and the better team always wins."

The Buckeyes opened the famed contest in the manner expected of them. The first time they got hold of the ball, that is, on the opening kickoff, they marched 79 yards in 13 plays to a touchdown. On the final play of the sequence, quarterback Frank Kremblas took it over from the one.

First Half Tied

Then, oddly, the Ohio State offensive was stopped cold and, in the second period, Oregon drove 80 yards in 10 plays for a matching touchdown. Halfback Jim Shanley carried the ball over.

The first half ended in a 7-7 deadlock.

Oregon drove for the Buckeye goal line again late in the third quarter, but the offensive ran out of steam on the 24-yard line and Jack Morris tried a field goal from there. It went wide.

Shortly later, only seconds after the fourth period had begun, the positions were reversed. An Ohio State drive ran out of gas on the Oregon 24. So halfback Don Sutherin tried a field goal and made it — the winning three points.

Then the break that killed them hit the Ducks. They were going strong in a mid-fourth-quarter drive for a second touchdown. Quarterback Jack Crabtree, who had been passing seasonally all day, hit end Ron Stover with a toss on the Ohio State 24, putting the Ducks in a spot to at least try for a field goal.

Mississippi's Frustration Ends With Sugar Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Raymond Brown gave one of the greatest one-man performances in Sugar Bowl history to end Mississippi's frustration in the New Year's Day event.

The Rebels' 39-7 victory over Texas was a tribute to Brown's driving power, masterful passing and deceptive faking. He scored two touchdowns, one on a record-smashing 92-yard run, passed for one and set up another with a pass interception.

The 190-pound senior won the Warren V. Miller trophy as the outstanding player as Mississippi made up for Sugar Bowl losses to Georgia Tech (24-7) in 1953 and Navy (21-0) in 1955.

"Brown played his best game today," Rebel Coach John W. Vaughn said, "but every guy we had in there was ready."

"He played better against us than any other quarterback this season," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal.

Brown gained 157 yards running, completed three passes for 24 yards, intercepted three Texas passes and managed a 34.7 yard punting average although aiming for the sidelines. He had one kick go out on the 7.

Mississippi took a 19-0 halftime edge after Brown intercepted a pass by Texas quarterback Bobby Lackey and returned it seven yards to the Texas 20. On the fifth play halfback Kent Lovelace sprinted nine yards to score.

Mississippi added a touchdown in the third period on a 52-yard march before Texas could get its offense clicking.

The Longhorns moved 33 yards for their touchdown, with halfback Max Alvis smashing the final two.

Otherwise they had only limited success against the tough Mississippians, who intercepted four passes and recovered four Texas fumbles.

Philly Seeking Navy And Irish

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia is trying to make its Municipal Stadium the scene of the Navy-Notre Dame football game as well as the Army-Navy game, 1958.

"We know authorities in Baltimore are trying to keep the game there and we've heard New York is trying to get the game," said city representative Frederic Mann yesterday. "No decision has been reached but we have been told Navy is extremely interested in everything we have offered."

Mann said an agreement between the Naval Academy and Baltimore for the game to be played in Baltimore alternate years was the one hurdle for Philadelphia to overcome.

After the Army-Notre Dame game in Philadelphia last fall, Notre Dame expressed interest in another game here this year, Mann said.

Municipal Stadium holds more than 100,000 persons.

Field Goal Wins Tangerine Bowl

ORLANDO, Fla. — (INS) — East Texas State's Neal Hinson booted a 31-yard field goal in the final period last night to give his team a 10 to 9 victory over Mississippi Southern in the 12th annual Tangerine bowl.

The dramatic field goal attempt came after the favorite Southerners had dominated much of the action. A safety had given Mississippi Southern a 9 to 7 lead in the third quarter.

North Dakota began its 1957-58 basketball season with a 246-155 record against six North Central Conference rivals in the 36-year history of the league.

Outclassed Duke Bows 48-21 To Oklahoma

By BERT OKULEY

MIAMI, Fla. — (INS) — The dust still was settling today in Miami's Orange Bowl where the devastating power of the Oklahoma football machine shattered outclassed Duke, 48 to 21, like a cyclone New Year's Day.

The triumph by the favored Sooners in the 24th Orange Bowl game was Oklahoma's fifth bowl triumph in six attempts and the score tied the highest number of points ever recorded in the classic, surpassing the 1948 score when Texas beat Georgia, 41 to 28.

Baker Runs 94 Yards The 76,318 fans who perspired in 73 degree weather also saw the longest run ever recorded in the Orange Bowl, a 94-yard touchdown return of a pass interception by Oklahoma's Dave Baker in the first period.

The Sooners went on to score in the second and third periods and exploded for four TDs in a mad fourth quarter that also established an Orange Bowl record of 10 touchdowns in one game. One was provided by Duke's bedraggled Blue Devils.

Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson explained, "We got the breaks TD... the things that happened to Duke normally don't happen to a team in a game like this."

The Sooners now have beaten three Atlantic Coast Conference opponents in the last five Orange Bowl games. Oklahoma also finished the 1957 football season with a 10-1 record—the defeat being the 7 to 0 loss administered last fall by Notre Dame and the Sooners' lone black mark in 51 games.

Duke Rallies The breaks that Wilkinson spoke about consisted mostly of glaring Duke errors, including a wobbly pass by Blue Devil quarterback George Harris that was described as "inaccurate." It was grabbed by Baker who whirled 94 yards for the long run in the first quarter.

Blue Devil fullback Andy Cottingham was unable to handle a poor pass from center in a punt situation in the second quarter to give Oklahoma the ball on Duke's 17. Clendon Thomas subsequently raved over from the 13 to make the score 14-0 for the Sooners.

Duke rallied following the kickoff and moved 65 yards in seven (Continued on Page 19)

Southwest Shut Out In Bowl Games

DALLAS (AP) — There was no joy in these parts today — the mighty Southwest Conference had struck out. For the first time in history the conference had teams in three bowl games — and lost them all.

Last Saturday Texas A&M started the slide by losing to Tennessee 3-0 in the Gator Bowl.

Yesterday Rice and Texas completed the rout. Rice took a 20-7 ed Duke, 48 to 21, like a cyclone New Year's Day.

The triumph by the favored Sooners in the 24th Orange Bowl game was Oklahoma's fifth bowl triumph in six attempts and the score tied the highest number of points ever recorded in the classic, surpassing the 1948 score when Texas beat Georgia, 41 to 28.

Louisville Wins Sun Bowl, 34-20

EL PASO, Tex. — (INS) — Louisville's Cardinals passed their way to a 34 to 20 Sun Bowl football victory over Drake before 10,000 fans here yesterday.

Ken Porco, Louisville's sophomore fullback, was presented the "Dr. C. M. Hendricks Memorial Trophy" as the game's outstanding player.

The Cardinals, noted as a run-and-explosive team, completed six of 10 mad fourth quarter that also established an Orange Bowl record of 10 touchdowns in one game. One was provided by Duke's bedraggled Blue Devils.

Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson explained, "We got the breaks TD... the things that happened to Duke normally don't happen to a team in a game like this."

West Virginia Risks Top National Rating Tonight

WVU Host To Canisius In 'Revenge' Hoop Battle

By The Associated Press
West Virginia takes the court tonight for the first time since it jumped to the top of the nation's college basketball standings by beating Kentucky and North Carolina, and it's doubtful the Mountaineers could have found an opponent they'd rather face than Canisius.

Win Eight In Row
That gives the Mountaineers a double incentive for tonight's game at Morgantown — revenge and an impressive victory that would keep West Virginia at the top of the national rankings.

West Virginia has won eight in a row this season since Canisius cut the 1956-57 season short so unexpectedly.

Three other conference teams see action tonight — two in non-conference scrapping.
Furman's Purple Paladins, one of only three league teams that didn't participate in a holiday tournament, return to action after a layoff of almost three weeks in a game at Georgia Tech of the Southeastern Conference. The Paladins have won only once in six starts.

Washington & Lee's Generals, losers of seven straight games after two victories that opened the campaign, play their seventh contest in a row away from home at Morehead (Ky.).
The Citadel, 59-57 winner last night over Florida State in the opening round of the Senior Bowl Tournament at Mobile, Ala., goes against Spring Hill for the championship tonight.

Kansas Entertains Oklahoma State

By The Associated Press
West Virginia and Kansas — the nation's top-ranked college basketball teams — go into action tonight as the deluge of holiday tournaments dwindles to the vanishing point.

West Virginia, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, entertains Canisius in its first game since shattering North Carolina's 37-game winning streak in the Kentucky Invitational Dec. 21.

Kansas, also unbeaten, goes after its 11th in a row by entertaining Oklahoma State.

The Senior Bowl tournament at Mobile, Ala., and the New Hampshire Invitational at Durham, N.H., also wind up tonight. The Citadel plays Spring Hill for the Senior Bowl championship while the New Hampshire final.

Ohio State Wins

Both The Citadel and Spring Hill won first-round games last night in the final seconds. A long and other departments, too. The field goal by Ray Graves with 10 team shooting average is a second left gave The Citadel a healthy 42.7 per cent, and scoring 59-57 triumph over Florida State at 83.5 points per game. West Virginia has gotten 61 per cent of the rebounds in each game, as the final whistle blew factor that Coach Frank McGuire Spring Hill a 69-67 victory over the New Hampshire final.

Harvard overwhelmed New Hampshire 78-56 and Amherst nipped Springfield 51-45 in the first round games at Durham.

In non-tournament games last night club at running. Kentucky's Ohio State ended a seven-game losing streak and chalked up its first victory of the season by nipping Yale 69-67 and North Carolina State, ranked 11th nationally, walloped Virginia 84-70 in an Atlantic Coast Conference tilt.

Yardley Captures NBA Point Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — George Yardley of Detroit who went on a scoring binge and wound up with 128 points in four games last week, has taken over first place in the National Basketball Assn. scoring race.

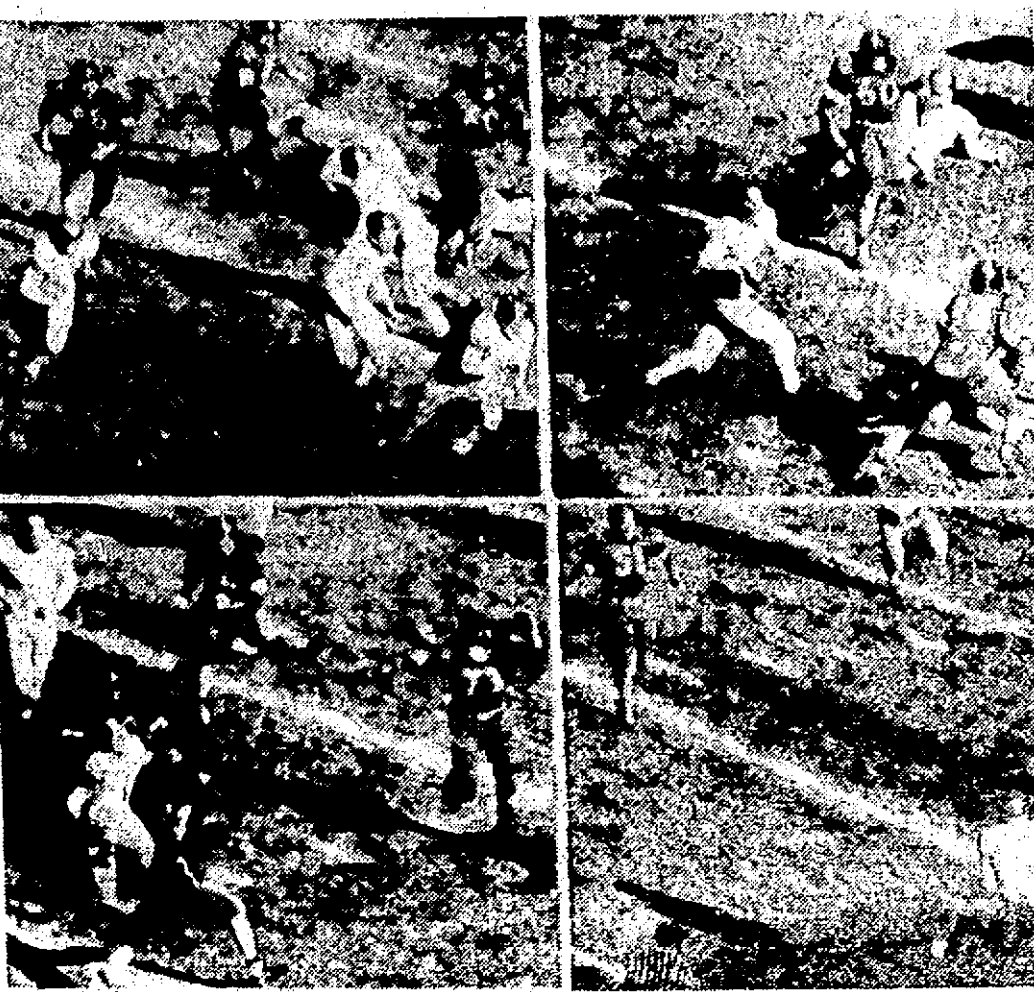

Yardley got an assist when Bob Pettit of St. Louis suffered a broken finger. Until he was injured Pettit was the leader.

But now, according to NBA statistics released today, Yardley is 66 points in front of Pettit, 877 to 811, and holds an edge in percentage, 28.3 to 27.0.

In the only game last night, St. Louis whipped Minneapolis 105-98 at Dallas with Ed MacAuley tossing 27 points.

West Virginia Avidly Awaits Canisius Game

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — "Special"—Being ranked tops in the country, the West Virginia Mountaineers tonight go against Canisius, the team that rudely knocked them off in the NCAA Tournament first round last night over Florida State in the opening round of the Senior Bowl Tournament at Mobile, Ala., goes against Spring Hill for the championship tonight.

The West Virginia squad rested up in a week-long holiday following the double-barreled upset of Kentucky and North Carolina, then returned to practice last Saturday.

They are undefeated in eight contests, the last three being against nationally ranked clubs, and they now rank first in the Associated Press poll, third by the United Press coaches board, and fourth by International News Service. Every opponent will be a service for them from here out.

The Mountaineers themselves will take an extra measure of pleasure in engaging Canisius, an appetizing opponent because it eliminated them immediately from the national tournament.

West Virginia was seventh ranked in a final poll and had won 17 of the previous 18 games, but the shire Invitational at Durham, N.H., also wind up tonight. The Citadel plays Spring Hill for the Senior Bowl championship while the New Hampshire final.

This year Canisius will find its opponent to be amazingly well balanced, with all five starters averaging from 10.4 to 14.9 points per game and sharing in rebounds night in the final seconds. A long and other departments, too. The field goal by Ray Graves with 10 team shooting average is a second left gave The Citadel a healthy 42.7 per cent, and scoring 59-57 triumph over Florida State at 83.5 points per game. New Cincinnati Park Proposed

CINCINNATI (AP) — The enhanced possibility that Cincinnati's Reds may shift to another city has prompted a group of businessmen here to propose building a complete new stadium.

Atty. J. A. Lloyd Jr., spokesman for the privately organized group, said yesterday the proposal calls for a stadium with parking space for 8,000 cars built at Lunken Airport on the eastern edge of the city. He estimated the cost at six million dollars.

Lloyd's group was also spurred yesterday by a report that a major league baseball committee in Minneapolis has invited the Reds down to move to the Minnesota city.

Sports Editor Charles Johnson of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune said the invitation was prompted by the comment last week within six games of front running Boston in the Eastern Division.

Dolph Schayes paced the Nats eight of 13 for 97 yards to 21 points.

The triumph moved Syracuse through the air did Duke snow of 328 yards to Duke's 279. of 13 passes for 114 yards to home.

Terp Five Invades 'South' Tomorrow

Maryland's Terps, considered by many to be the team with the best chance of dethroning North Carolina's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball leadership, come "south" tomorrow night to start work on the assignment.

The tall Terps, ranked No. 7 in this week's Associated Press poll, play disappointing South Carolina at Columbia tomorrow night, then move on to Clemson for a game with the year-improved Tigers Saturday night.

Virginia, also making its first swing southward, dropped an 84-70 decision to powerful North Carolina State last night. The Cavaliers continue the swing by meeting Clemson Friday night and South Carolina Saturday night.

Mascots Get Little Glory In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — The mascots at yesterday's Cotton Bowl, where Navy defeated Rice 20-7, got little glory from the game.

Rice's 5-foot-tall owl, made of wire, disappeared right in the middle of the game in full view of 75,504 fans. It was discovered minutes later being carried away by a group of mischievous.

After a sharp tussle and a tug of war, the bird was returned to the Rice rooting section where it was guarded for the rest of the Carolina showdown comes the following week at College Park.

The Terps, now 6-1 after a triple overtime loss to Memphis State in the Sugar Bowl Tournament finals, are tough to beat at any time on their home court. This year they have added height and scoring punch to go with Coach Bud Millikan's slow-motion type of offense.

Bunge, McNeil Star

Al Bunge, the 6-9 soph center, and Charlie McNeil, 6-6 soph who alternates between center and forward, are averaging better than 13 points each per game.

The Tar Heels beat the Terps twice last year, the first one easily by 70-61. But the second meeting went two overtimes before the Tar Heels won it 65-61.

Despite their low scoring 39-30 victory over North Carolina State in the Dixie Classic finals, the Tar Heels own two of the top four scorers in the conference in Pete Brennan and Tommy Kearns. Brennan is the conference's top point-maker with a 19.4 per game average, and Kearns, the stubby 5-11 guard, is fourth with 17.3.

North Carolina State, ranked No. 11 in the nation, had little trouble with Virginia last night, leading all the way behind the red-hot

Corum Sees End To No. 1 Grid Hysteria

By BILL CORUM
NEW YORK (INS) — Pro football, of course, owes its existence to college football. Year in and out, the colleges produce an inexhaustible supply of well-coached players for the pro ranks.

No sport, or business, or combination of both, ever had it so good in assembling its personnel. It's the feeling in this corner, however, that unconsciously the pros are doing something for the colleges in return. Which is that they are helping to make the college game less professional and, therefore, better.

Every more people are watching pro football in the stadium and on TV. Their kind of football is far better than the colleges can play. No college team can, therefore, hope to be again the best in the country.

Which, it is logical to believe, will act as an increasing deterrent to commercialism and professionalism in college football.

Pros Furnish Thrills
Those of you who watched the pro playoff game between the Detroit Lions and the San Francisco 49'ers and yesterday's bowl games know what I mean.

Tobin Rote and the Lions played more football in the second half of the game at Kezar Stadium, and I would think, generated more excitement among the TV viewers than all the bowl games combined.

Except for the gallant battle that under-Duck Oregon put up against Ohio, the bowl games weren't much in the matter of competition.

Jollie Eddie Erdelatz' Navy team, the best I saw among the colleges this season figured to handle the esteemed Jess Neely's Owls just about as they did.

Navy Impresses
Ohio State, Oklahoma and Duke, among the teams I got to see, boasted fine lines. But, seemed to me, not quite as quick as Navy's and certainly these teams didn't have the well-rounded attack of the Sailors.

Navy in 1957 was good enough to have to find their level all over for any college. And good enough again in college.

to take pride in, even though it was beaten and tied.

Which brings us squarely back to the point of the essay. It may be a mirage but I believe I see on the horizon the end of hysteria about undefeated college teams, and the No. 1 teams in the polls, and all that rather silly business.

The bowl games packed 'em in without benefit of such pairings. And the best game of the day was the one from which least was expected.

Colleges have built in fans and supporters, their graduates, their games will continue to draw and be fun, without grown men going around crying salty tears because some nice youngsters lost a football game.

They can't have teams to match the pros, anyhow. As the pros attract more fans, there is apt to be less high-powered college football. And nothing could be better for college football than that.

Just before the final gun, his two handlers sold him to a small boy for 50 cents. But the lad changed his mind and the Navy had to return the 50 cents and take Texas Bill back.

Timeouts Most Important, Iba Wants To See Faces

By LARRY OSIUS
STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Five sweat-stained youths lay on the shiny floor as drum beats, horn blasts and the rhythmic screaming of 9,000 fans echos from the brick and tile fieldhouse walls.

The boys are Oklahoma State University basketball players. They are fanned out in a near circle around coach Hank Iba, a big burly man with gray hair and gray eyes. He is vigorously emphasizing a point by slamming one hand into the other.

The 53-year-old man from Easton, Mo., admits "many times I have lost my temper out there to think that they have forgotten what we taught. If we pass over the mistakes, it breeds carelessness."

That roughly is the coaching philosophy of a man who has guided 28 college quintets to 598 victories—better than 21 a year—against 174 losses.

Players Lie Down
"There are certain things we must do," he says. "Some nights we eliminate more mistakes than others. And some nights we create a situation where our opponents make more mistakes."

Iba has his players lay down around him for two reasons — to relax and "so I can see every face and try to read their interests. Are they panicky? Tired? If I can't see their faces, I can't half of the game at Kezar Stadium, and I would think, generated more excitement among the TV viewers than all the bowl games combined."

Except for the gallant battle that under-Duck Oregon put up against Ohio, the bowl games weren't much in the matter of competition.

Young Star And Great Lady Divide Broadway Honors

AP Newsfeatures

The first lady of the American stage shared honors with a winsome newcomer on Broadway this year.

Helen Hayes, who celebrated her golden anniversary as a star in 1955, continued as top luminary in the theatrical heavens in 1957 with her triumphant return in a gay and sentimental play, "Time Remembered."

But shining with almost equal magnitude was youthful Mary Ure, making her New York stage debut in the leading role of the hit play, "Look Back in Anger."

Miss Ure, 24, is a Scottish born actress who started as a teacher in speech training, then took to the footlights when she was offered a scholarship by the British Broadcasting Corp.

She won a reputation as a promising young star in London before coming to New York. Her most successful role there was that of Ophelia in "Hamlet."

Mary plays the role of Alison in the current Broadway hit, which was written by her husband, John Osborne, author of the play.

Other top performances of the year by women on Broadway were principally by veterans of the stage. Florence Eldridge has scored a triumph in Eugene O'Neill's tragedy, "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Thelma Ritter took the town by her hilarious role in the musical "New Girl in Town," in which she anticipated the current

Roads Program Review Asked

Information on the status of additions and the transfer of certain Maryland's road construction from the state to the county system has been received by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, according to James Orr, president.

Orr said the County Commissioners were asked to study the road program, which has been extended from 12 to 15 years to coincide with the interstate road system, and to make recommendations to the State Roads Commission.

Pritchett offered to send an SRC official here if the county wished a further briefing on the plan, and Orr said the offer will be accepted.

Father's Trial Releases Juror

CLEVELAND — (INS) — East Cleveland Judge Stanton Addams was a little red-faced the other day when he discovered the daughter of a man who appeared in court on a drunken driving charge was on the jury hearing the case.

On the other hand, the defendant, Lawrence L. Hayes, who was assessed $114 in court costs, found himself in the unusual position of having to pay his daughter's jury fee, $5.

Judge Addams ruled that although he had to dismiss the girl from the panel, she should be paid the fee. She had been seated before the relationship was discovered.

O'Brian Says Gleason Should Return To TV

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Just to start the New Year right, here's a notion, a positive one in behalf of a negative situation that, we have been mulling for many months. It has been inconceivable to us that a comedian carrying the towering impact of Jack Gleason should flop so completely as he has.

Certainly, in the words of the sage Cole Porter, Gleason was "too hot not to cool down," but the fires could have been banked if certain facts had been faced. There was, however, a small matter of a large ego involved.

In his unemphatic, moody, melancholy guise as a TV tycoon who owned a large and bustling business whose assembly line's end product had to be either excellently manufactured laughter or show business bankruptcy, Gleason's ego finally failed him. Someone convinced him—perhaps he kidded himself—that a half-hour filmed series based on his "Honeymooners" characters could sustain as long as "I Love Lucy." Therefore he switched his immensely successful Saturday night variety show to a comical sameness which finally did him in. The rest of the Gleason characters—Reggie Van Gleason, the bartender, Rudy the repairman, etc.—had elements of rich pure clowning in them.

We thought from the start of "The Honeymooners" back when Gleason headed an obscure little DuMont network variety called "Cavalcade of Stars," that Ralph and Alice Krunden were his flimsiest cardboard characters. They were resentful people, all right, but Art Carney's man in the sewer, and we never could catch the entire amusement of a big, noisy overhearing bore of a bus driver who came home to fight and flounder in endless argument. We never believed once that such a caricature of nastiness could be cured in the final moment of a sketch by the love of a good woman and the quick decision: "You're the greatest."

Now we would like to state our conviction that Gleason need not be a flash in the TV pan. He can, if he wants sufficiently, return and do himself and the public a favor. But he would have to parcel out some of the creative control to talented men as strong in their knowledge as he was in his unbending insistence on running everything.

Gleason is no genius; talented, certainly; intuitively comic, without doubt; possessed of a bulldozing personality, without argument. But a genius—never. We haven't encountered one genius in TV so far. Genius has the extra dimension beyond understanding and Gleason's fall from public favor was all too understandable. He needs a better director, a firm hand in questions of taste and in moments of whim.

West Virginia Salary Hike Bids Rejected

CHARLESTON — The State Board of Public Works has refused salary requests that would have permitted the creation of four new positions in the State Motor Vehicles Department and one in the Department of Mental Health.

The Motor Vehicles Department asked the board to authorize $10,800 for its proposed staff increase. The mental health agency sought $5,380 for one new position and three salary boosts.

The board also turned down salary increases amounting to $3,120 for the Motor Vehicles Department.

Another mental health request, which would have effected a transfer of $11,830 from the department's personal services account to the Lakin State Hospital's comparable account, was also refused by the board yesterday.

The transfer was designed to provide maintenance services.

The board approved a Department of Education for salary raises for five field supervisors amounting to an over-all $700.

The board also approved a salary increase for Mrs. Louise Stanbury, acting supervisor of the State Merit System Council, when she returns to her former post of personnel executive secretary. She will receive $120 a month.

Another raise was authorized for the public health educator in the Department of Health. Presently vacant, the position will pay about $5,000 a year.

But six salary amendments to the present fiscal year operating budget of the West Virginia Training School were rejected by the board. They totaled $5,440.

Postal rules forbid mailing of dunning postals, and lottery, endless chain and fraud matter.

Yule Light Theft Wave Continues

Complaints received in the past few days by city police of vandalism and theft of outdoor Christmas decorations brought to the number of these complaints that local authorities have investigated.

The complaints began to pour into Police Headquarters about December 15 and have been received almost daily since, officers said, noting that the damaged and stolen decorations probably amount to several hundreds of dollars.

Some of the cases have been solved with the arrests of numerous youths but many are still being investigated. Officers said probably many other instances of thefts and damage to decorations have not been reported.

Meanwhile, police said several small girls were caught shoplifting in one of the local stores on Baltimore Street.

Detective E. Gordon Hite said the girls, picked up on two different instances of shoplifting, were 7, 9, 10 and 12 years old. All four were turned over to their parents until further disposition of the cases can be made.

Corn, the most important food plant in the United States, is grown in all 48 states.

Posse Search For Sign Thieves
TULARE, Calif. (INS) — Citizens-posses are riding the roads again in California searching for vandals who steal or mutilate traffic signs.

Tulare County Highway Commissioner Joseph Garcia, Jr., organized the 200 volunteers a year ago. Each time a volunteer spots a missing or damaged sign, he mails a post card to Garcia, noting the exact location. Repair crews are sent out within hours.

Garcia says the citizen-volunteer plan is an outgrowth of a survey of 12,000 traffic signs along the county's 3,100 miles of roads. Many were found damaged or outdated. Although the county uses modern reflective signs, the road commission felt they had to insure constant repair for maximum highway safety. The citizen's posse was the economical answer.

Shrine Of Liberty Comes Of Age
Independence Hall's 'Front Yard' To Become Historical Park
By THOMAS I. GERSON
NEA Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — Independence Hall, America's foremost historic shrine, has come of age.

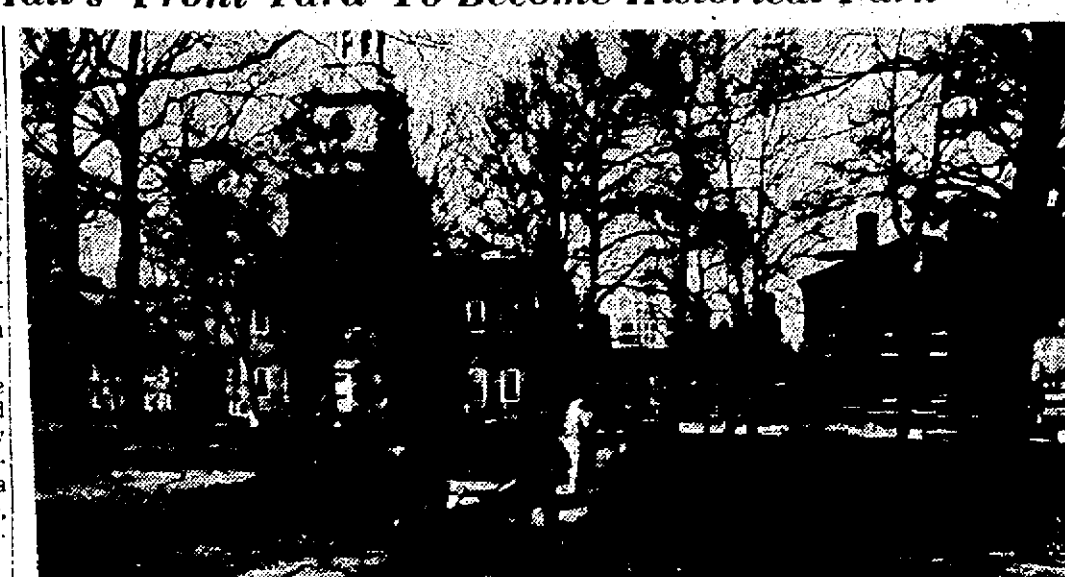

Long hemmed in by a clutter of sums and commercial buildings, the hall's "front yard" is now being cleared under a federal-state-city program. It is a development in which every American citizen can take pride.

Two hundred and twenty-one years ago architect Edmund Woolley was paid five pounds by John Penn, son of the great William Penn, for designs for a structure first called Province, then the State House, then Independence Hall.

Woolley hadn't heard of a document that was to begin, "When in the course of human events..." Nor had he heard of another document that was to begin, "We, the people of the United States..."

He didn't know that he had designed a cradle of liberty where the Declaration of Independence would be signed on July 4, 1776. Nor did he know that millions of visitors would come each year to the shrine where the Constitution was adopted and the United States perpetuated on Sept. 17, 1787.

The current project of reclamation will place our national shrine and its group of buildings between two park-like malls, three erected in 1795, the oldest bank building in the country; the Second Bank of the United States, between Fifth and Sixth streets; and a splendid example of Greek Revival architecture, built between Chestnut and Race streets, 1819 and 1824; Carpenters Hall, built in 1770, the meeting place of the First Continental Congress in 1774; the Bishop White

PHILADELPHIA'S INDEPENDENCE HALL looms in the background as workmen dig trenches in Independence Square to uncover landscape planning made in 1736 and the location of an observatory from which the Declaration of Independence was first read to the public.

Mary Haworth's Mail
Editor's Note: Angry parents refuse to surrender grandchild to remarried daughter.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a young wife, twice married, with a daughter nearly four by my first marriage. That marriage failed and I had returned to my parents shortly before Judy was born. Three years later I married again, happily, and my parents like John very much.

Four months ago I had to make a hard decision, about following John to another state. I was very confused as my parents wouldn't let go of Judy, though she gets along beautifully with John and calls him daddy since we married.

Finally I left her with my parents, agreed that we would come to get her as soon as we had a place to live. Now we have the place; but every time I call still, home and ask for Judy they say she's asleep, or out somewhere, unable to come to the phone. I've written constantly but they don't answer.

My husband is due to go fetch her this weekend. We got power-of-attorney for his acting as her father, as my parents want proof that she is coming here, not to her natural father. When I phoned to tell them when to have her ready, my dad called me vulgar ugly names—because they want to keep Judy. I hung up on him, unable to bear it.

They were sympathetic during my trouble before Judy was born. Afterward they all but tortured me about my former husband's past, always thinking that he will take the baby. I tell them to live for the future, and that John and I must shape our family life together. But the more I try to make them understand, the worse they react to me. They've told me never to come home again, that they don't want to be bothered with us.

How can I convince them that I don't mean wrong in wanting my child and their affection, too? And that their kindness to me in time of need doesn't entitle them to my child?—F. S.

Parents' Bias Is Treacherous

DEAR F. S.: Taking your story at face value, it seems to me that the sympathy and moral support of all fair-minded persons will rally to you, in this regrettable struggle for guardianship of Judy.

Your parents' behavior as described, in the recent crisis, is grossly inconsiderate of the child's right and yours, to-wit: 1. Judy's right to be with her mother, provided the mother is a loyal, loving, responsible parent. 2. Your right to custody and companionship of your child, and the opportunity to cultivate a continuing close and mutually affectionate relationship with her.

Their jealous dissembling attitude, and your father's ugly, insulting tirade in particular, appose your efforts to set up your own home, constitute a really shocking and treacherous attack on your peace of mind. And as such, it is an indirect blow at Judy's welfare too, that could damage her personality in devious ways. And by this display of blind destructive rage, they demonstrate their temperamental unfitness to train a child in the way it should go.

Why Do Children Have More Colds In Winter?
By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Why do our children have so many more colds in winter than in summer?

One reason is the very dry air in most of our well-heated homes. We keep our houses warm, all right. There is scarcely an American home without central heating, but until long water when air is heated and comparatively recently little at even quite a few new ones do not have been given to the do the job adequately.

humidity of our warm winter If there is any question about the adequacy of the humidifying system in your house, a worthwhile investment for your family's health this winter would be an instrument for measuring the humidity. If you find that your house is about as dry as the Sahara, you'd better take a few steps to remedy the situation. If germs reaching such dried out you do not need to buy a new humidifier, but you can buy a humidifying device to put in your house in winter we must which you water frequently also helps, or running a vaporizer for a few hours. A few green plants in your house around 70 per cent humidity. The amount of water that air can absorb depends upon the temperature of the air. The warmer the air the more water it can "hold." When air has absorbed all the water it possibly can at any given temperature we say the humidity is 100 per cent.

Suppose we bring cold winter air into our houses. The temperature of the outside air is, let us say, at freezing temperature and it is full of water—100 per cent humidity. We warm it up that air to 70 degrees in the house without adding any water to it. Warm air at 70 degrees could hold a great deal more water than it could at freezing temperature, but since there is no water for it to absorb it is no longer full of water but at about 20 per cent humidity. Air at 20 per cent humidity is dry air and it absorbs every bit of water it comes in contact with. One place it finds water is in our noses and throats. So each time we breathe in this dry air, the air ports that the Princeton fire department answered 86 calls during 1957, including 38 to fires outside the city. He placed the year's fire loss to buildings within the city at $16,959. Contents of buildings accounted for an additional loss of $5,189.

It could be the whole answer to public education's financial difficulties.

"There are some counties that still would have to have additional state aid over, and above incentive amounts," Flannery said. Bean agreed that adjustments would have to be made for the benefit of small counties.

Flannery warned that he had encountered "a lot of opposition" among members of the Legislature to new revenue measures that would be required to provide the money for the school and roads programs. He cited what he called a declining state and national economy.

Underwood indicated Saturday that he would make proposals in his call on how additional revenue might be obtained.

Flannery said he believed Underwood "missed his cue" when he did not send up a road program to the previous Legislature.

My husband is due to go fetch her this weekend. We got power-of-attorney for his acting as her father, as my parents want proof that she is coming here, not to her natural father. When I phoned to tell them when to have her ready, my dad called me vulgar ugly names—because they want to keep Judy. I hung up on him, unable to bear it.

They were sympathetic during my trouble before Judy was born. Afterward they all but tortured me about my former husband's past, always thinking that he will take the baby. I tell them to live for the future, and that John and I must shape our family life together. But the more I try to make them understand, the worse they react to me. They've told me never to come home again, that they don't want to be bothered with us.

How can I convince them that I don't mean wrong in wanting my child and their affection, too? And that their kindness to me in time of need doesn't entitle them to my child?—F. S.

Parents' Bias Is Treacherous

DEAR F. S.: Taking your story at face value, it seems to me that the sympathy and moral support of all fair-minded persons will rally to you, in this regrettable struggle for guardianship of Judy.

Your parents' behavior as described, in the recent crisis, is grossly inconsiderate of the child's right and yours, to-wit: 1. Judy's right to be with her mother, provided the mother is a loyal, loving, responsible parent. 2. Your right to custody and companionship of your child, and the opportunity to cultivate a continuing close and mutually affectionate relationship with her.

Their jealous dissembling attitude, and your father's ugly, insulting tirade in particular, appose your efforts to set up your own home, constitute a really shocking and treacherous attack on your peace of mind. And as such, it is an indirect blow at Judy's welfare too, that could damage her personality in devious ways. And by this display of blind destructive rage, they demonstrate their temperamental unfitness to train a child in the way it should go.

to the six of clubs. East's king forced Joe's ace and Joe drew trumps with his queen and dummy's jack.

Joe's next play was the deuce of spades. West played the three and Joe went into a long huddle and finally played the king. West took his ace and led the four of clubs.

Joe ruffed in dummy with dummy's last trump but had to lose another spade and a club to be down one.

"Well," said Joe. "The year starts off as usual. I couldn't guess the spade because both the ace and queen were wrong."

Also, as usual Joe had produced his own hard luck. The hand was a cinch no matter how the spades lay provided Joe did not indulge in the luxury of pulling all the trumps.

Joe should have led the three of trumps to dummy's jack and then led the spade. West could still have forced dummy to ruff a club whereupon Joe would simply play another spade.

West would be in the lead again but dummy would still have a trump left to keep West from cashing a club.

leave an extra trump in dummy. In today's hand South lost game and rubber because he needed a trump to get to his own hand and he had already pulled it.

South ruffed the second club lead and promptly played out two top trumps. He was mildly surprised when West showed out. He shouldn't have been. East needed something for his double.

Now South led a low diamond and played dummy's jack. East took his ace and came up with a beautiful play. He left away from his queen of hearts.

West's jack forced dummy's king and suddenly declarer noted that all was not rosy. He had to get back to his own hand to lead a diamond and the only way to get back was to ruff a heart.

He did that and led a diamond. West went up with the king and led a third club which forced South to ruff for the third time.

Now East held one more trump than South, who still had a club. South had lost game and rubber. If East had led a club when he was in with the ace of diamonds South would still have been forced to ruff three times but it would not have hurt him since when East got in with the last trump he would have had to lead a heart to dummy.
